LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan said today he was "very hopeful" a satisfactory conclusion will be reached on a Canadian proposal for a Commonwealth trade conference.

Ousted Russian Leaders Under House Arrest

WARSAW (AP)—Polish sources reported today that the three prominent Russian Communists expelled from party leadership in the Soviet are under house arrest.

MOLOTOV

MALENKOV

The three are former foreign minister V. M. Molotov, former premier Georgi Malenkov and Lazar Kaganovich.

Dmitri Shepilov, former foreign minister and also ousted from party leadership, is not under house detention, the source said.

The strength of the denunciation against the expelled Communists here. One said it lacked only the charge of spying to make it read like accusations which sent former Soviet Security chief Lavrenty Beria before a firing squad.

The Communist organ Trybuna Ludu said the Moscow communiqué constitutes "the gravest possible accusation for a Communist—an accusation that the group wanted to turn the party backwards to methods of activity condemned by the 20th congress."

Trybuna implied that the ouster carries a warning for the Polish "natolin" group of Stalinists which still is vocal in private party caucuses.

"Experience teaches us that there is no greater danger to the workers' party than fractionalism," it said.

The central committee of the Soviet Communist party has indeed appraised this so. Hence the energetic struggle against a factional group in defence of the unity of the party and its correct policy."

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Russia followed up its purge of top Communist leaders today by firing three top leaders from government jobs.

Moscow radio said these three men, among five dropped Wednesday from the Communist party's Praesidium, have lost their government posts:

V. M. Molotov, 67, who was first deputy premier and minister of state control.

Georgi Malenkov, 55, who was first deputy premier and minister of power stations.

Lazar Kaganovich, 64, who was minister of building materials and a first deputy premier.

The latest Moscow announcement gave no indication of the ultimate fate of the men, accused of anti-party activities—a crime that usually meant death in the days of dictator Joseph Stalin.

St. Laurent Governor? Tory Official Says So

QUEBEC CITY (UP)—Well-informed Progressive Conservative sources said here Wednesday night Prime Minister John Diefenbaker will name two Quebec Conservatives to the senate, as well as recommend that former Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent be made the next governor-general.

The two new senators would be Quebec finance minister Onesime Gagnon, a former minister in the Bennett government, and Quebec city lawyer Mark Drouin, and ex-chief organizer for former Conservative leader George Drew.

Frederick Dorion, member of parliament for "new Quebec" area, would be appointed to the superior court bench in Quebec, they added.

The sources said St. Laurent would definitely lead the Liberal Opposition when parliament meets in the fall, but that he is expected to be named governor-general Vincent Massey's successor.

"It would be a well-deserved appointment, and all Canadians would love it," a Conservative party spokesman said.

John D. Delays Session For Arrival of Queen

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker strongly indicated that the opening of Canada's 23rd Parliament will be delayed until mid-October, enabling the Queen to be present.

During the election campaign, Diefenbaker promised the new Parliament would meet in September. Since then, he said, complications have arisen, and "I don't think there will be any great condemnation" if the opening is delayed until the Queen's arrival.

One complication inhibiting a September opening is the fact that the Canadian Parliament buildings will be occupied until Sept. 28 by an international postal congress.

WON'T LEAVE IWA

In a question-and-answer session with reporters, the prime minister also:

Declined to deny or confirm the substance of a Manchester Guardian story saying he had delivered a "broadside" at Wednesday's meetings of Commonwealth prime ministers.

The Guardian says "temperatures rose sharply" at the meeting after an "outspoken" speech by the Canadian leader on the subject of American investment in Canada.

Said there are good grounds for speculation that three Commonwealth prime ministers—Menzies of Australia, Suhrawardy of Pakistan and Nikuramah of Ghana—will be seen in Ottawa in the next few weeks or months. Menzies is definitely visiting Ottawa July 21-24 and the others are likely to come.

Said there has been no change in Canadian policy on the recognition of Communist China.

BUT NO FINALITY YET

"There is no finality in that stand," he said. "Recognition is something more than a concept based on juridical principles. There is still a large body of Canadian opinion which feels that the action of recognition would be taken by people in various parts of the world as a victory for communism and as having a detrimental effect on some of those who are in opposition to communism."

CNR Fleet Tied Up By Seamen's Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—A Sea-farers' International Union strike against Canadian National Steamships began today on its noon deadline, the SIU reported.

Picketers were dispatched as the SIU struck against the first of eight ships either now tied up or due to be in Montreal, Saint John, N.B., and Halifax in a dispute about wages.

A spokesman for the government-owned CNS said its two vessels affected immediately were transferred to deep water anchorage off Longue Pointe this morning and the striking crews would be lighted off.

The union announced Tuesday it would call the strike today to back demands for a wage increase of 30 per cent. The company has suggested adoption of a federal conciliation board report recommending an increase of 10 per cent.

Raoul Trepanier of the Federal labor department's Montreal office said he has the "assignment" of attempting to work out some settlement and that he will be getting in touch with the disputants, perhaps later today.

Eight ships and more than 300 men are to be affected by the walkout.

Wreck Sighted Feared Remains of B.C. Plane

VANCOUVER (CP)—The RCAF said today the wreckage of a light plane has been sighted on a mountain in northwest Washington State and it may be that of a Canadian plane missing since Monday with two men aboard.

"There is an aircraft there," an official of the air force search and rescue division said. "It may be an old one, it may be the one we want."

Rocket Report Still Awaited

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—A giant scientific rocket was scheduled to be blasted off from a launching tower 13 miles east of here at 12.16 p.m. PDT, today, but 30 minutes later no word on the launching had reached here.

Aboard the single-engine aircraft were the pilot, J. E. Matser, 21, and the owner, Steve Antifae, 24, both of Grand Forks, B.C.

Gale Rips Ontario, Kills 2

TORONTO (CP)—Heavy rains and hurricane-force winds struck Southern Ontario Wednesday night and early today, smashing barns and power lines, uprooting trees and causing the death of at least two persons.

Three other persons were known to have been injured, one critically, in the violent storm's destructive march south and west of Lake Simcoe.

A 14-year-old boy was struck by a car and killed as he cycled through the rain and a 12-year-old lad died when a tree collapsed on the roof of an island cottage in Lake Seaborg near Lindsay.

The injured included two women in the cottage and a truck driver who suffered head cuts when a toppling tree mangled his cab.

The storm uprooted big trees, snarled power wires, cut communications to whole communities and flattened crops along a narrow stretch of farmland north and east of Toronto between Lake Simcoe in the north and Lake Ontario in the south.

Altogether, 30 thunderstorms were reported the breadth of southern Ontario. Rain fell from Michigan to Montreal.

Nehru Hails PMs Parley As Success

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India said today he is "certain" the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers "is serving a useful purpose."

"You would mistake the nature of these conferences if you think we meet together to frame some bold adventure in policy," the Commonwealth statesman said at his first major press conference since the prime ministers began their meetings nine days ago.

Nehru described Prime Minister Diefenbaker as "one of the leading personalities at the conference."

"He is a gracious and fine man and we have met in a friendly way."

Asked to give his reaction to Diefenbaker's suggestion that the next prime ministers conference be held in Ottawa, the Indian leader replied: "I would welcome it."

Nehru said his country has "no intention of suddenly withdrawing" the Indian contingent from the Canadian-dominated United Nations Emergency Force in Egypt.

BLUSHING JURY BAFFLED

Bare Facts of Nude Case Poser, Or...Must the Show Go On?

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—A blushing male jury was called on Wednesday to weigh up one of the most perplexing questions of the year:

Is a girl in a tiny bikini less nude than a girl in a G-string when posed in a cageful of lions?

Jean Quinn, a striking, 23-year-old brunette showgirl, raised the issue in a lawsuit against The Daily Sketch.

Jean accused the paper of saying, or implying, that she was nude—i.e. in a G-string—when she was in fact wearing a bikini, and with sequins on it. She asked appropriate damages.

The trouble all began a few weeks back when one of the nudists failed to show up for the big lion cage number in the show The Nudes of Paris at Southampton. Actually, the show's nudists weren't quite—they wore G-strings.

Mrs. Quinn, wife of the show's producer and mother of a 17-month-old daughter,

Coast Lumbering Shutdown Slated To Begin 10 a.m.

An 11th hour bid by Premier Bennett to stave off a strike of 32,000 coast woodworkers failed today.

Barring a last-minute change of heart, which seemed unlikely at noon, the strike will begin at 10 a.m. Friday.

Almost 12,000 men will be idled on Vancouver Island, including 1,500 in the Victoria area.

Representatives of the IWA and Forest Industrial Relations, bargaining agent for 157 coast operators, reported to the premier this morning following the breakdown of their negotiations Wednesday.

At the end of the 90-minute meeting the premier admitted that negotiations were deadlocked.

"I tried every means possible to get them together but..." the premier said.

At the same time the premier disclosed that the union has come down from its original demand of a 20 per cent wage increase to 12½ per cent.

The operators, who originally said they could not afford to grant any increase, have offered 5 per cent.

Neither side would budge

'Worked as Hard as I Could'

Asked to comment on what effect the strike will have on the provincial economy, the premier declined, and shrugged. "I've worked as hard as I could."

While stating that today's meeting was friendly, Premier Bennett said "what is needed is more goodwill between both groups."

"They need more confidence in each other in bargaining."

Talks between the two parties collapsed acrimoniously Wednesday. Both sides issued bitter statements.

"They don't understand or don't care where the money is to come from," said J. M. Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations.

IWA president Joe Morris said that "on Friday at 10 a.m. they (the operators) will reap the fruits of their consistent policy of denying to their employees a just share of the wealth earned by the industry."

The strike, which will close all logging, plywood, sawmill and shingle operations on the coast, is the most serious of a number of labor disputes facing the province.

On Vancouver Island alone an army of 12,000 loggers and sawmill workers, that earns an estimated $880,000 each week, is ready to "pull the pin" if the strike is called.

In the Victoria area the major employers affected are B.C. Forest Products, Canadian Puget Sound Lumber and Timber at Jordan River, Butler Bros., Goodridge Sawmills at Sooke, Harbor Sawmill, P & W Sawmill, Smith Cedar Products, Crowe Gonnason and Sooke Lake Lumber.

Up-Island the strike will have an immediate affect on whole areas. Lake Cowichan and the lakeside communities of Youbou, Mesachie Lake, and Honey-moon Bay live exclusively on income at Alberni and Port Alberni.

The Alberni, in fact, where MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. have sawmills, plywood plants, and pulp mills, are considered to have the greatest concentration of IWA membership in B.C.

According to union officials there are 1,500 members in Victoria and district, 4,500 in Lake

IWA

Cowichan-Duncan-Nanaimo, 3,600 in the Alberni, and 1,200 in Courtenay-Campbell River.

In all four areas picket teams have been formed, and all workers are ready to stop work sharp at 10 a.m.

Operators have been expecting the strike, and have acted accordingly. Where possible, production of logs has been kept closely in step with mill demands in order to keep the number of logs in storage at a minimum.

In addition, contractors requiring lumber have built up their stocks as much as possible in order to be able to keep working during the strike.

Pulp mills appear to be in a precarious position. Although workers at the mills at Harmac, Port Alberni, Duncan Bay, and Port Alice are in the Pulp and Sulphite Workers' Union, the flow of logs is in jeopardy.

At Duncan Bay, near Campbell River, the company has three booms on hand. Others are in storage at Gowlland Harbor, at Quadra Island, and the IWA says they will be picketed. Harmac, near Nanaimo, has poor storage ground, and the IWA says that only those logs under tow at 10 a.m. Friday will be allowed to continue to their destinations.

No new towns will be picked up, union officials said.

The strike could well be a long one. Some operators have expressed alarm, but a good many are quite prepared to remain shut down through the summer and not worry about reopening until the fall.

The union also is adamant. John Squire, Alberni, IWA and recording secretary of the big Alberni IWA local, said today the majority of men are "disappointed" with the wage offer of 5 per cent, and want parity with other industries.

"They are prepared to fight for it," he said. "When you decide to go on strike, you usually prepare yourself for a long one," said Ed Linder, financial secretary of the Duncan local.

At Courtenay crews are ready to strike not only for higher wages, but for settlement of certain grievances that have been ranking since signing of the 1954 contract.

MORAL SUPPORT

An appeal to all labor unions to give moral support to the IWA strike was made at a meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night by Ed Haw, financial secretary of the Victoria IWA local and a council vice-president.

Mr. Haw said the IWA for the time being was not intending to call for financial support. "But what we want is your moral support and co-operation," he said.

Here is the chronology of negotiations leading up to the strike:

Negotiations began last March. Besides the 20-per-cent wage increase, the union asked for a union shop agreement, increased vacations and more statutory holidays.

The employers maintained they could not grant any wage boost because the market for lumber and wood products was so poor. Talks broke down after two weeks—on March 29.

The two parties tried again in mid-April under the chairmanship of former B.C. attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

Mr. Wismer and the employer nominee on the board, in a majority report, recommended that negotiations be put over until Oct. 1. The report did not discuss the wage issue.

OPPOSED

The IWA objected strongly to the majority report, saying that if accepted it would deprive them the right to strike if negotiations broke down again in the fall.

In the first week of June the union conducted its own vote among the membership and reported 95 per cent supported strike action.

Then a government-supervised strike vote was ordered to take place last Wednesday. On Tuesday afternoon, Premier Bennett wired both sides to meet with him in his office later in the week in an effort to break the deadlock.

In the official vote, the IWA membership voted 90 per cent to back strike action.

At a meeting Friday, Premier Bennett succeeded in getting the disputants to re-open negotiations.

These new talks continued for five full days before collapsing late Wednesday afternoon.

There have been two previous strikes in the B.C. lumber industry since the end of the Second World War—one in 1946 and the other in 1952.

The worst was five years ago when the industry was shut down for 45 days at an estimated overall cost to the province of $45,000,000.

Both these strikes were ended after Chief Justice Gordon Sloan was appointed by the government as a special mediator.

Floods Ravage Big U.S. Area

CHICAGO (BUP)—Floods surged across four states today and a new squall line pounded the northern plains, adding more moisture to already soaked farmlands.

An outbreak of violent weather also hit the northeast Wednesday night and early today, dumping up to .75 of an inch of rain at Syracuse, N.Y., Burlington, Vt., and Mount Washington, N.H.

Severe thunderstorms accompanied by wind gusts of 50 miles per hour swept the Dakotas Wednesday night and today, knocking down power lines at Sioux Falls, S.D., Jamestown, N.D., reported more than one inch of rain in a thunderstorm.

High winds also whipped western Nebraska, and tornado funnels were sighted at Southland and Brady near North Platte, Neb.

New floods swirled Wednesday and today across thousands of acres of cropland in Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Indiana.

Agricultural officials in Indiana and Illinois reported extensive crop damage due to floods and prolonged wet weather.

Up to 50,000 acres of farmland were inundated when the Wabash River smashed a levee near Griffin, Ind. State officials considered asking Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson to declare flood-plagued Indiana a disaster area.

Floods in southern Illinois have washed out thousands of acres of corn, eliminating the state's chances to repeat as the nation's top corn producer.

... Diefenbaker

The prime minister plans to fly back to Ottawa Friday night and will hold a cabinet meeting Saturday. He disclosed he had been invited to visit the republic of Ireland as the guest of Prime Minister de Valera, but declined because of the pressure of time.

Asked to comment on the shake-up in Russia, whereby five party leaders have been dismissed from the Praesidium, the Canadian leader said: "It is a most amazing situation. One wonders whether or not the changes mean that the army will assume more importance in the general set-up than ever before."

On the question of a proposed full-scale Commonwealth trade conference, he reiterated that there is an "open invitation" for Commonwealth finance ministers to visit Ottawa late in September to consider the feasibility of such a conference, perhaps early next year.

CAUTIOUS ABOUT SESSIONS

Diefenbaker was cautious in replies to questions about proceedings at the current Commonwealth conference, which ends Friday noon. He was particularly wary in discussing The Guardian story about the alleged "broadside" he had delivered at Wednesday's meeting. He had seen "lots of speculation" about what goes on at Commonwealth conferences, and not all of it was true.

The Guardian story says: "For the first time since the Commonwealth prime ministers gathered... the temperature rose sharply yesterday... the cause was an outspoken speech by Mr. Diefenbaker, which proved to be one of the bluntest statements made so far. It is not certain that the Canadian leader intended to administer such a shock to his colleagues, but what he had to say about outside investment clearly came as a very great surprise to some of his opposite numbers..."

The paper quotes Diefenbaker as saying that in some lines of business in Canada as many as 70 per cent of the firms are entirely under American control.

Why waterproof and self-winding?

A Rolex watch is made self-winding, not to save you the trouble of winding it up, but to increase its accuracy by creating a constantly even tension on the mainspring. But, to obtain this greater accuracy, the mechanism must be protected from all harmful substances, such as water, dust, dirt and powder. The Rolex Oyster Perpetual is guaranteed waterproof; it winds itself infallibly. The robust construction of the movement means that it can be worn for 24 hours a day, no matter how strenuous your work or games. It is thus supremely accurate and dependable.

THE ROLEX OYSTER PERPETUAL, absolutely accurate in the famous Oyster case, infallibly self-wound by the Perpetual "rotor" mechanism, and truly a masterpiece of modern horological science.

Diefenbaker Denies Rumor On Wheat

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today there is no foundation, "in directly or otherwise," for suggestions that Canada may be thinking of withdrawing from the International Wheat Agreement.

He was replying to a question from a reporter who said there were rumors in Winnipeg that Canada might be contemplating withdrawal.

In reply to other queries about wheat, Diefenbaker said his hopes of disposing of some of the Canadian surplus are "very much higher" than when he arrived in London June 24.

"I believe a very considerable avenue has been opened which will lead to advantages to Canada," he said without elaboration.

Earlier, he said wheat is Canada's "No. 1 problem" and that naturally he is doing what he can in London to seek "ways of moving" the surplus.

MOTORIST RAMS RUNAWAY CAR

TORONTO (CP)—Police said an unidentified motorist prevented a serious pileup in morning rush hour Wednesday when he drove his car into a runaway auto to slow it down, then jumped out of his car into the runaway and guided it to the curb.

The car went out of control at a busy intersection when the driver, Donald Tong, 56, an electrician, died of a heart attack at the wheel.

City Jaycees Win 3 National Awards

The Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce won three awards at a recent national convention of Jaycees in Ottawa, for community and social projects carried out in the city over the past year.

The convention ended Wednesday, and was attended by Victor Fuggle, retiring president of the Victoria Jaycees, and five other members.

The Junior Chamber won the inter-chamber visits in the U.S. its "paint-up, clean-up" campaign, Christmas lighting contest, and the "Welcome to Victoria" floral mat at the Inner Harbor. The contest was opened to chapters in communities of 30,000 population and over.

It received second prize in the government and civic affairs competition.

The Victoria group also was awarded the International Friendship scroll presented to the club that fulfills the most inter-chamber visits in the U.S.

Remotely Controlled Substation In Saanich Opened by Reeve Ash

Proof of the past growth of Saanich, and expectations of future growth, was given Wednesday when the B.C. Electric George Tripp substation on Lochside Drive was declared officially in business.

"It is estimated 65,000,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity were sold here last year," said Thomas Ingledow, vice-president and executive engineer, at an opening ceremony. "This station can deliver 250,000,000 kilowatt-hours, therefore can handle loads four times as large as those of today."

The automatic station, built at a cost of $214,000, and with associated facilities that cost $405,000 was activated by Reeve Arthur Ash in a symbolic ceremony.

It was put on load from Bay Street substation. All operation will be from Bay Street, and there will be no staff at the station.

Reeve Ash also unveiled a plaque in honor of the station's namesake, former general superintendent of operations for the company on Vancouver Island, who died in 1946.

The substation is designed to serve the Saanich area, drawing power from both Jordan River hydro station, and the 132,000-volt submarine cable from the mainland.

E. W. Arnott, company vice-president on Vancouver Island, conducted the ceremony, witnessed by about 30 company officials and Saanich council members and senior department heads. With him on the platform were H. L. Purdy, executive vice-president, and R. H. B. Ker, Vancouver Island director of the company.

TAKEN ON TOUR

Following the ceremony the visitors were taken on a tour of the installation, and were shown the news capacitors which will absorb the fluctuations caused by sudden demands, and provide an even flow of electrical power to the 13,000 commercial and private consumers in the municipality.

After the tour the party was entertained at a reception and luncheon at Royal Colwood Golf Club.

Russ Purge Hailed Win For Nikita

Western View: Wait-and-See,
Move Toward Peace Says Tito

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

LONDON—West European observers agreed today that the big purge in the Kremlin was a victory for Nikita Khrushchev. Yugoslavia's Communist regime saw it as a move toward peace, but others adopted a wait-and-see attitude about the effect on Russia's relations with the West.

The shake-up was hailed by the Communist parties in Western Europe, the old-guard Stalinist regime in East Germany and the Poles, straining to loosen their ties with the Kremlin.

Nikita Khrushchev, crafty Soviet politician backed by strong Red Army support, has won a dramatic and important battle in the Kremlin power struggle that is far from ended, Washington officials said today.

Experts forecast a continuing period of Soviet internal power plays that could bring a single dictator into supreme power—perhaps Khrushchev himself. The much ballyhooed Kremlin claim to collective leadership seemed all but wrecked by Khrushchev's ouster of three old Stalinists—V. M. Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and Lazar Kaganovich.

The experts doubted the Kremlin shake-up would bring about any important foreign policy consequences for the U.S. But they believed it might signal a somewhat more lenient Soviet policy toward the restive satellite brood.

In Driver's Seat Says London Times

London morning papers agreed the purge put Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev in the driver's seat.

"In the Soviet Union and in the East European countries," commented The Times, "the upheaval will be taken as meaning that the stubborn old brakes on the liberalizing policy have gone and Khrushchev will at last have his head."

In Rome, the organ of the ruling Italian Christian Democrat party said the shakeup "might lead to new hopes for co-operation with the Western world." But this, Il Popolo said, "depends solely . . . on the wishes of only one man—even if this man is the well-intentioned Khrushchev."

"Crushing Defeat for the Toughs"

The Paris embassy of Wladyslaw Gomulka's Polish government which came to power last October after defying the Kremlin, called the ouster of Molotov and his associates a "crushing defeat for the toughs," for the Stalinists of the Kremlin.

In Tokyo, Japanese vice foreign minister Katsuo Ohno said he expected the shakeup to result in the intensification of the Soviet peace offensive launched by Khrushchev.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru, in London for the meeting of the Commonwealth prime ministers, described the changes as "a move in a healthy direction." Diplomatic quarters in Paris said they were of the opinion that Khrushchev had acted in the knowledge that Russia might be isolated by the United Nations report which recently condemned the Soviets for resorting to force to quell the Hungarian uprising.

Keep U.S. Bomb Plans Secret, Senators Urge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator William Knowland (Rep. Calif.) said today he doubts Congress would readily agree to furnish Russia with information on how to make a "clean" hydrogen bomb. Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem. Mont.) said "I would be careful about giving our formula away." President Eisenhower said at his press conference Wednesday that some nuclear scientists have told him they favor telling Russia and other nations how to make a "clean" bomb as soon as the United States proves it knows how to produce one. Eisenhower didn't state his views on the questions, but he indicated he was willing to accept the guidance of the scientists.

MORE TESTS NEEDED
Earlier, Eisenhower noted that some scientists have informed him that they had succeeded in eliminating about 96 per cent of radioactive fallout from such devices, and that, given another four or five years of testing, they could produce a fully "clean" bomb.

Any such transfer of weapons information would require amendment of the Atomic Energy Act and Knowland, the Republican floor leader, indicated that might be difficult to get.

Mansfield, acting Democratic leader, said in a separate interview:

"Before we agree to give them any information we certainly should have an ironclad agreement, backed by escape-proof inspection arrangements, to do away with the building of the bigger bombs and a disarmament plan which would cut down defence expenditures for all countries."

2,800 Sign Youth Centre Petitions

More than 2,800 persons have signed National Youth Club petitions for a drag strip and youth centre, supervisory manager Con Walling said today.

Of these, about 90 per cent came from adults, he said.

The petitions will be presented soon to City Hall.

The youth club's 700 members will gather at the CCF Hall, Douglas Street, Friday at 7:30 p.m. for a short business meeting to be followed by a dance.

A Victory for Freedom

IN TWO HISTORIC DECISIONS the United States Supreme Court has re-defined and re-enforced the liberties of the American people. The brief smears of McCarthyism are being erased from the Constitution. Through a judiciary which the legislature cannot control or even question the nation is recovering from a period of hysteria.

The court's first decision drastically limits the powers of Congressional committees in examining private citizens.

Such a citizen, Mr. John T. Watkins, was under examination for former communist activities. He admitted them but refused to disclose the names of his associates. For contempt of the Congress he was fined $100 and sentenced to a year in jail, the sentence being suspended.

But Mr. Watkins was not satisfied to escape punishment. He insisted that the Congress had no right to question him about matters not relevant to his own case or the business of the nation. Finally the Supreme Court considered Mr. Watkins' appeal, and upheld it.

One of the most important decisions ever handed down by the courts holds that Congressional committees may always study matters relevant to the actual business and the legislation of Congress. But these committees are specifically forbidden to go beyond that area. They must not "unjustifiably encroach upon an individual's right to privacy nor abridge his liberty of speech, press, religion or assembly."

The exact effect of this ruling, and the line dividing legitimate inquiry from mere witch-hunting, are not yet clear. They may require further cases and further appeals to the courts. It is certain, however, that the limits of Congressional inquiry have been drastically curtailed and the rights of the citizen against unjustified interference by the state have been greatly strengthened. In its second decision, the Supreme Court lays down a doctrine of far-reaching importance by limiting the scope of the famous Smith Act.

It is illegal, under this statute, for anyone to advocate the violent overthrow of any American government. What is advocacy as distinguished from private opinion?

The Supreme Court finds that it is not illegal for any American to believe in violent revolution. The law is broken only when a person actually intends to overthrow the government by violence or persuades others to attempt to do so. As a result of that decision, the court has released some convicted communists and ordered new trials for others.

The right of free thought, even if it theoretically favors revolution, is thus confirmed by the final authority of the land. If any man is to be sent to jail for his opinions it must be proved that he has attempted to put them into effect by overt act. He must be, in the court's familiar phrase, a "clear and present danger" to society.

The importance of these judgments is best indicated by the anger of their critics. Surviving witch-hunters of the Congress say that the court has opened the doors to unlimited communist agitation and exposed society to grave risks.

The court, undoubtedly reflecting deep changes in American opinion, as it always does in great affairs, believes that American life is quite strong enough to survive a few powerless agitators.

As The New York Times remarks, "these decisions correspond to a faith and confidence newly re-born in the hearts of the American people... The freedoms that the court has reassured and defended are the sources of our strength."

Yes, and they are the essential sources of the United States' moral strength throughout the world.

Two Blades and Two Mouths

WESTERN SCIENCE IS LITERALLY and figuratively teaching the peoples of backward countries how to make two blades of wheat grow where one grew before. It is also teaching them how to combat disease, curb infant mortality, save life and prolong life.

In consequence, two human beings are surviving to eat the two blades of wheat where only one survived to eat the one blade of wheat previously grown. The net gain in living standards, by arithmetic at least, is nil. Increased production which would be sufficient for one, remains subsistence or less for two.

That is the point made by Philip Hauser, University of Chicago expert on populations. The United States is failing in its foreign-aid programs, technical assistance and capital development to meet this problem, he argues. The United States is not providing the relief to human misery caused by too many people with too little food, housing and the chance for a decent life because birth rates are keeping abreast of, if not exceeding, increased productivity.

There is an obvious answer to the problem—birth control. But how, ask the experts, do you impose birth control?

The peoples of Asia have been alerted to the situation by a seminar at the 1955 Bandung conference. India has included in its second five-year plan provision for research into means of controlling populations. Among foundations in the United States birth control research is proceeding with special reference to the problems ahead. Communist China, with a population now estimated at 583,000,000 and an annual increase of 12,000,000 has called for a 600,000,000 population maximum.

The swelling numbers assume more meaning for people of this continent when the words of one United States expert are noted. He says that the earth is capable of providing the standard of living and consumption achieved in the United States for only 900,000,000 people. The present estimated global population is 2,500,000,000.

To which Professor Hauser adds the comment that it could go to 50,000,000,000 if "the world succeeded in mastering solar energy, could extract iron from lowest-grade rocks and everyone lived on algae."

The problems of over-population are obvious. The practical means of achieving a solution are not yet in sight.

Goal of Higher Excellence

AT BUTCHART'S GARDENS they strive for excellence. How close they come to their goal is indicated by the continued appeal of the world-famous centre of floral beauty.

It is in keeping with this objective that the authorities at Butchart's this year have extended to three the number of symphony concerts to be held, and have acquired Sir Ernest MacMillan as guest conductor for one of them. Mr. Hans Gruber, of course, can be depended on for his usual brilliant leadership.

The popularity, locally and internationally, of these musical events in the garden setting is beyond question. They have added lustre to the fame earned by Butchart's over the years.

The presence of the distinguished conductor—a good friend of the Victoria symphony—should make the concerts even more notable. So, too, should the contribution of distinguished guest artists scheduled to sing during the series.

From excellence, Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross plan to move to even higher standards of excellence at Benvenuto this summer.

Notice to Litterbugs

THIS IS THE TIME OF WEEK-end outings and picnics. It is also the time to remind some of our more thoughtless picnickers that they achieve no commendable distinction by leaving their litter behind them.

A place of beauty can remain a place of beauty only if those who frequent it make up their minds to keep it so. Empty tin cans, discarded bottles, cartons, wrappers and paper do nothing to increase the attractiveness of nature.

To those who enjoy outings at this season a simple plea is offered: If there is no disposal unit where you picnic, please pack your old wrappers, tins and bottles back home to your own incinerator or garbage can. No one wants them any more than you—and if the picnic has been a success, it is surely reasonable to leave the grounds in such a state that later picnickers can also make their affairs a success.

Leap in the Dark

AS a human phenomenon, quite apart from its policies, a new government is a fascinating subject for speculation. With every new government the nation makes a leap into the dark.

We are now beginning that leap. All new governments look pretty much alike at the start. They have about them the aura of victory at the polls, the good wishes of the electors and a boundless hope.

Their members are united like brothers by a common sense of dedication, the awareness of their mission, the feeling of high adventure. And in this early, honeymoon stage no one can distinguish the men who count from those who don't.

A CABINET is not only a combination of men but a chemical combination out of which no one knows what will emerge. Usually the men most prominent at the beginning sink into obscurity and the least promising men grow into the giants.

For example, how many members of Laurier's last cabinet of 1911 can the present reader remember? One of the least famous and most unprepossessing was a youngster named Mackenzie King. Obviously, with the government's defeat, his career was finished.

Who remembers Borden's cabinet, except for another youngster from Portage la Prairie, named Arthur Meighen? Can the reader recall a single member of Meighen's brief cabinet? Or any of the men who surrounded King at the beginning of his administration?

Among them was an obscure person from Quebec who couldn't speak English until he came to Parliament and seemed to have little future. That was the great Lapointe.

LATER on an obscure Quebec lawyer became Prime Minister St. Laurent. Still later, a civil servant, Lester Pearson, who knew nothing of politics, suddenly towered above all the professionals.

Thus today we see in office a group of men, some prominent, others almost unknown to the nation at large, and we cannot tell who will be managing the nation a year from now and who will be mere passengers.

We can be sure, however, because it is true of every cabinet, that an inner core will soon appear and dominate the whole ministry, that some men who are best known now will have little real power, will be mere ornaments after they have failed the secret and acid test of Ottawa.

FROM this test there is no escape. In private business you will often find at the head of great industries men who are unfit by nature to run a corner grocery. Nay, I could name many famous executives in whose hands I would not trust my new aluminum wheelbarrow.

In the professions, too, many a man can get by, prosper and impress the public without any real talent. Incompetents and phonies of all sorts clutter our society and easily fool the public.

But at the peak of affairs, on the naked summit where the sun beats down without mercy upon the occupants, deception is difficult and, in the long run, impossible.

SINCE politics is essentially a struggle for power, and its pursuit is the overriding concern of all politicians, the most powerful by nature finally have their way.

The weaklings may be disguised and protected by their friends, carried along with appropriate public ceremony or comfortably stowed away in the Senate. In the end quality counts in government as it seldom counts so decisively elsewhere.

Mr. Diefenbaker and his colleagues are now entering this hard, remorseless ordeal by fire. We do not even know yet as we did not know of any predecessor at the beginning what kind of man the Prime Minister is. He could be the greatest Canadian statesman in history. He could be a dismal failure.

AS to his lieutenants, we know virtually nothing. For the member of the opposition is an entirely different man from the member of a government because all his circumstances are different and it is only in government that he must bear the awful load of responsibility, under which men grow or wither.

It is certain, however, by the laws of political chemistry, that within the Conservative Party are unsuspected giants of the future and the little men who only look like giants before they have to bear the load.

MARKED for READING
CONTINUING VOICE

In Laugharne I met a man who for fifteen years had been trying to arrange a meeting with Dylan. But Dylan's movements were as bewildering as his metaphors and the pilgrim had never caught up with him. It was a dreary day; a drizzle was coming up from the estuary. The man stood by the grave, quite alone, and spoke out the lines of Dylan: "Too late in the wrong rain. We come together whom love parted." And all of a sudden the day's dreariness had gone. Anybody who can change the quality of rain, especially Welsh rain, from beyond the grave is an outside in poets.

—Gwyn Thomas, the Welsh writer.

From Our Files

July 4, 1897—The Bellingham Bay Yacht Club postponed the annual North West Yachtsmen's Association regatta yesterday to await the arrival of Victoria entries. High winds prevented the local craft from making the trip.

July 4, 1917—Ottawa: Sir Robert Borden was reported trying to reorganize the cabinet along the lines of a union government. He believes a number of Liberals will accept portfolios.

July 4, 1937—Newport, R.I.: Mr. H. S. Vanderbilt's Ranper gained her third victory in defence of the America's Cup, finishing nearly a mile ahead of T. O. M. Sopwith's British challenger, Endeavor II.

As Our Readers See It

Of Lasting Benefit

May I add my contribution to those whose opinions have already been expressed in your columns with regard to Victoria's centennial project?

Out of the many plans put forward, all doubtless good in themselves, emerge two, that in my humble opinion, would be suitable to commemorate our centenary as they would be of lasting benefit to citizens of all ages. They are:

1. An Art Gallery that would be worthy of the capital city of any province, and

2. An auditorium.

B.C. is already regarded in the east as the centre of an outstanding group of artists whose work requires to be suitably housed and where the paintings of the world's great masters, which cannot now be seen, would, in a properly built fireproof building, be given the necessary room for exhibition. Surely, with the growing material prosperity of our wonderful province we dare not neglect the cultural and spiritual values of our people.

MISS ETHEL JAMES.
1031 Terrace Ave.

Bring Emily Home

Re the centennial project. We think that this should be one that will offer the most to the greatest number of citizens.

A fireproof wing to the Victoria Art Gallery would be a most fitting and worthy one.

We could then be sure of the Emily Carr paintings being shown to advantage where they rightly belong in Victoria.

In turn, it would add to the revenue of the city by its great attraction to the tourist.

It already caters to the needs of the many young and not so young with its varied programs, and would thus be enabled to offer still more to the benefit and enrichment of everyone.

ESME DAVIS.
HOWARD N. DAVIS.
4578 Hughes Rd., R.R. 3, Victoria.

Will Mankind Be Warned?

Queer how nations think that dropping Hell bombs on each other will achieve world annihilation. Actually each nation need only drop these bombs as tests in their own country to produce precisely the same effect.

Scientists state these tests are painless, but hurricanes, tornadoes, twisters, and tidal waves with masses of dead, and millions in destruction will follow these continued man-made blasts that upset the delicate balance of nature.

Shall we call it the judgment of God, on an abomination that is the work of the Devil and will mankind be warned in time?

A. L. STEVENSON.
2765 Belmont Avenue.

Correcting Mr. Pepper

May I correct Mr. Pepper on two false assumptions in his letter in the Times of June 27.

First it is not labor that the workers sell to the capitalist. It is labor power. There is as much difference between the two as there is between work and ability to work, or a yard and distance.

Second, as propertyless wage workers, socialists are not being audacious by selling their commodity on the market in common with all the other sellers of labor power. As human beings we have the urge to survive as all others. Dead or destitute socialists would not be more honorable or useful to the cause. One thing I would like to see, is fewer of the exploited passively or actively supporting the exploiting system in their off hours.

Add to this the situation of old people who today are seeking a small increase in crumbs from the collective employers' table, when they should demand that property serve man, instead of man serving property.

C. LUFF.

2518 Empire Street.

True Love

Ruth Enke's very human character sketch "Grandpa... The Vanishing Way" (June 27) carries my thoughts back to her critical article published near Christmas time, wherein she dubbed herself "wicked old sinner that I am" (very few of us are as honest as Ruth in this respect).

The "grandpa" sketch reveals in her four words "Grandpa loved his animals" what really has largely vanished—true love, or selflessness, so forcefully and exactly defined in "I Cor., Chap. 13."

Love's deterioration started in the Garden of Eden, and has nearly reached its climax in this old world, or system of things; but God's nearing Battle of Armageddon will arrest its decline and usher in the new world or new perfect system of things as recorded in 2 Peter 3:13. "But there are new heavens (governing control) and a new earth (system of things) that we are awaiting according to His promise, and in these righteousness is to dwell."

FRANK H. KEVERN.

51 Kiwanis Village.

Apology

The Greater Victoria Citizenship Council wishes to apologize to those attending the "I Am a Canadian" Citizenship Ceremonies on Sunday last for the delay in starting the program and for the lack of a public address system.

Arrangements had been made for a sound truck to be in attendance but due to circumstances beyond our control the truck failed to make an appearance. As the chairman of the program was given to understand that the equipment would appear within a reasonable time the start of the program was delayed.

The Citizenship Council wishes to thank those in attendance for their patience and forbearance.

ELIZABETH V. FLOWS.
Corresponding Secretary

Too Long to Wait

Mr. C. Luff evidently does not like the CCF's brand of socialism. But if we are going to wait for the whole world to adopt his brand I am afraid he will have to endure capitalism for a long time to come.

As long as the CCF strive to eliminate the abuses of capitalism I will support them.

"PENSIONER."

Message to Canadians

Canadian brains and eyes should be free to report on happenings in New China without being influenced by the warped vision of frightened U.S.A. communist haters.

Neither should U.S.A. financial might make moral cowards out of bright Canadian minds, whose recognition of their superiority over much American intelligence, entices them to earn more money in U.S.A. than their beloved land of Canada.

Let Canadian intelligence, industry and fortitude rise supreme over the pathological fears of the modern U.S.A. disease, known as "McCarthyism."

If we assert ourselves as Canadians, we can do it. But if we continue to become the mental vassal of frightened American minds—India—and other countries with courageous intellects with dark skins—will eclipse us.

The writing is on the wall for Canadians able to perceive.

W. A. SCOTT.
1052 Newport Avenue.

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Unreadiness and Indecision

THERE is a remarkable resemblance between Gen. Eisenhower's handling of the disarmament negotiations and his handling of the budget. In both cases, that is to say, he has launched a proposal and embarked on a course, not having made up his mind about just where he wished to go.

The deliberation, the weighing of alternatives, the hard work of making a firm decision, would in an orderly and rational conduct of government have preceded the presentation of the budget and the sending of Mr. Stassen to London to negotiate with Mr. Zorin.

But in the case of the budget, it took nearly two months before it was reasonably clear whether the Chief Executive was for or against the executive budget. Only after much confusion and controversy did the President begin to make clear where he stood.

In the case of disarmament, it has now transpired that he started the diplomatic exchanges with no real agreement within his own official family, with no adequate understanding with our allies, and with his own mind still fluid.

During the past few weeks, with Mr. Stassen abroad in London to speak for him, the President has acted the part, not of a statesman who has a policy but of a puzzled man who is thinking out loud.

No doubt the problems of disarmament are extraordinarily complicated. They are fraught with uncertainty and with risk, and there is an awful responsibility on one who, like the President, must make the final decisions.

Premature

But there is no reason why he had to enter into the negotiations; why he had to send Mr. Stassen to face Mr. Zorin, until he knew for certain whether he was in favor of reaching the kind of agreement that might conceivably be possible. He should have waited until he was ready.

There was no use talking with the Russians if the President himself had not yet thought through his policy, no use if high officials in Washington were convinced that they must nullify what Mr. Stassen was supposed to do.

In the field of diplomacy, this has been like committing unprepared troops to a great battle, while the generals have not yet arranged for their supplies or ceased to argue with one another about the objectives of the battle. This is the way to demoralize an army, and during the past week there has been a very considerable demoralization in Washington.

The greatest doubt has been raised as to whether the President wants an agreement, or whether he could now persuade the Senate to ratify an agreement.

Mr. Gromyko is wrong in saying, as he did last week, that the United States is using the disarmament talks as a "screen concealing its striving to continue and intensify the arms race."

The truth is that the United States is not really using the disarmament talks at all because the President and his administration have a policy to which some are opposed, and about which the rest are not convinced.

Opposition

Unless the President can find some way to clarify and then to make firm the American position, we shall find ourselves either with a treaty that the President does not really want, or with one that the Senate will reject. In either event, we shall bring down upon ourselves the onus of blocking the path to a limitation of armaments.

I have heard it said that this will not happen because if and when Mr. Stassen really starts to negotiate about the details with Mr. Zorin, he will find the Soviet Union is quite unwilling to reach a good agreement about inspection and control. That may well be true if the negotiations are genuine.

But if we remain in our present position, where the probabilities are against the ratification of a disarmament agreement, the Soviet Union can go very far in its offers without running the risk of having to make good on them.

We had better assume that the Russians do want an agreement, and that they are prepared to pay a considerable, though not an enormous, price for it.

We had better assume, too, that we shall have to clear up the confusion in our own position, and that we must not count upon the unreasonableness of the Russians to save us from the consequences of our uncertainty and indecision. (Copyright 1957, N.Y. Herald Tribune Inc.)

Miriam

MIRIAM hadn't thought of them for years, but suddenly she remembered them and some of the advice they'd given her when she was an eager girl looking for the answers.

"Education is the key to success and a career," said Miss Eglington, sitting erect and formidable behind her study desk. "The tragedy is that so many girls throw it all away and rush into marriage."

"Don't fuss too much with higher education, dear," said Aunt Barbara, pink and plump and happy with her brood of children. "To minister to a man and bear his children is the natural task of women and the most important."

"If you love nature, dear," said sweet Aunt Judith, tucking a wisp of hair back under her gardening hat, "life will never be weary, flat or stale to you for long."

"Stick to the Bible and a good coat and skirt," said practical Aunt Edith who believed in Chilpruf combinations, Liberty bodices, sensible shoes from Daniel Neal's and a good plain hat by Henry Heath.

"Never touch your capital," said Uncle Robert. "The interest, yes, but capital, never. And when you marry see that the young man comes from healthy stock, and won't have to keep his parents in their old age."

"Marry for money," said Uncle Richard, the cynic. "Then at least you'll be miserable in comfort."

"Marry for love," said Aunt Amy, whose idea of a good meal was health breads and raw vegetables at some strange place in Bloomsbury. And, for good measure, she added her favorite quotation: "Better a meal of herbs where love is, than a stalled ox and hatred therewith."

"Always put C. of E. on any official form that asks about religion," was Uncle Albert's contribution. "It's safe and respectable."

"Don't ask me for the answers," said the clever man with the wistful monkey-face and kind brown eyes. All I know is that each of us must find them for himself."

Then there was Ramona, Miriam recalled. Ramona was so brilliant that no one understood the plays she wrote, though, in her selected circle, they aroused a lot of lively discussion about symbolism, my dear, symbolism, and the integrity of one's art being all that mattered.

"Except lucidity, perhaps, and an occasional wash," murmured Miriam's grandmother who could be very tart of tongue.

Uncle Giles, of course, had no use for Ramona.

Uncle Giles' code was simple—a good school, a good club, a good tailor, plenty of expensive whisky and good cigars.

Miriam remembered a dreadful day when an absurd young man she had in town dropped his glass of scotch on Giles' carpet.

"Marry a man who drops his H's, if you must," Giles muttered to her as she left. "But never marry a man who drops his drink. Unreliable."

What a strangely assorted bunch they were, reflected the Miriam of today. And how they muddled me with their advice. But none of them told me that the chief delight of middle age is looking back and laughing gently at what was once deadly serious.

It's the diversity of life that's so amusing.

Killing With No Remorse

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

As a physician who has had some experience with psychopathic delinquents, I was interested to read that John G. Graham said before his execution for having blown to bits a plane carrying 44 people—just so that he could kill his mother and thereby collect some insurance money—that he didn't feel any remorse; he just couldn't feel sorry. To him people were just so many animals.

This is exactly what one would expect. Usually these people seem to have been born without any sense of responsibility, shame, decency or purpose in life. They are like mischievous children who do whatever they want to do, regardless of consequences. They force cheques, they steal cars, they marry women and desert them; they do anything that will get them a few dollars, and they cannot feel sorry.

Dr. Alvarez

What is curious is that because of our stupid, outmoded, futile, and unworkable laws defining insanity, these people, no matter how "crazy" they may be in the eyes of their family, their acquaintances, and their physicians, have to be adjudged sane. Why? Because they can tell right from wrong; they can appreciate the consequences of their behavior; and they have no hallucinations or delusions. No mental hospital superintendent can hold them for a day. Because their crimes are usually petty, no jail holds them for more than a few months. Then they come out and get into mischief again.

NEEDLESS MURDER

Recently, I read the—to me—unintelligible instructions of an able judge to a jury telling them how they were to decide whether a brutal murderer was sane or insane at the moment when, during a hold-up, he needlessly killed his victim. As I remember, the psychiatrist who had examined the man had said he had always been mentally unbalanced—he had even been for a time in a mental hospital—but they could not help the judge because they had no way of knowing if, when he pulled the trigger, he knew right from wrong, etc. Accordingly, the all-important question, on which experts would not and could not express an opinion, was put up to 12 men and women who knew nothing about insanity. In order to help them, the judge wrote out careful instructions defining the old law of "insanity." I was impressed by the fact that, with all my special knowledge in this field, I could not understand the document, and if I had been a juror in the case, I would not have known what to do.

Killing With No Remorse

How wonderful if the judge and jury and lawyers, instead of playing a stupid game according to ancient and outmoded rules, and instead of worrying only as to whether they should punish the fellow, had thought about ways of protecting society permanently from this mad-dog type of man. How wonderful if the fine judge could have said to the jury, "Here's the problem in a nut-shell. Here we have a man of 35 who has always been mentally unbalanced, always unable or unwilling to hold a job; always living by stealing or robbing, and perfectly willing to kill anyone. Obviously, your first duty to society is to order that this fellow be either executed or locked up for life. But now remember; if you say he was insane he will have to be locked up in our old state mental hospital, which was built about 1850 and is not constructed or run in such a way as to hold a dangerous and shrewd and murderous fellow like this. From such a hospital he will soon escape, and then this process of catching him and judging him will have to be gone through all over again at great expense."

FOOLISHLY QUIXOTIC

"A man like this can be handled only in a prison designed to hold dangerous men, and even there he will be a serious problem. I know that many good and kindly people are strongly against capital punishment, but I wonder how soon they would change their mind if every day and all day as a guard they had to risk their life to keep their powerfully-built fellow from breaking out and escaping. Let us now think, not so much of his rights and his good; let us not be so foolishly quixotic; instead, let us think of the many people he will surely be robbing and perhaps killing when he gets out again. Let us remember that the doctors here have no illusions that by any treatment anyone can ever make this man into a good citizen who can be trusted with freedom."

Why cannot our lawyers and judges have sense enough to talk like that? Why must we often spend three months convicting or turning loose a murderer about whose guilt there can be no reasonable question? Why do we play such a stupid and very expensive and time-consuming game?

Some years ago as I waited to testify in a trial, I marveled as the judge ruled out practically every bit of evidence that would have shown what the case was all about. I gained the impression that the judge was a fine man who felt a bit distressed over the sorry part he was playing. Unlike a British judge, he made no effort to learn why the litigants were there; all he did was to see to it that the opposing lawyers played their silly game according to the rules.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Black Aphids Prey On Vegetables Soon

Black aphids are abundant on vacant lots and in hedgerows, their host plants at this time of year being the thistles. A little later they will migrate to the vegetable garden, choosing the bean plants for a late summer host.

The more we can destroy of the present colonies the less trouble we shall have among the vegetables.

The first thought that comes to mind is to destroy all the thistles around the property. This can be accomplished with 2.4.5.T brush killer.

However, killing the thistles is not destroying the aphids, it is only depriving them of one source of food.

Aphids are sucking insects and therefore not affected by DDT, lead arsenate, nor any of the stomach poisons, but they are susceptible to contact sprays such as nicotine-sulphate.

POISONS TO HUMANS

The new systemic poisons are designed to kill aphids by poisoning the sap within the plants. Unfortunately, any plant can pick up the poison from soil water, and persons eating the poisoned plant can suffer the fate of the aphids.

One effective way to destroy colonies on the thistles is to attack them with a plumber's blow torch. The searing flame may also be used on broad bean plants.

Douks Demand Probe

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors in this area have asked for an investigation of treatment of their children at the New Denver dormitory school.

A wire was sent Tuesday care of John Steeves, Vancouver lawyer, to Bill Mowjelski, secretary of the Fraternal Council of Reform Doukhobors. It read: "Under supervision of J. Clarkson punishment and beating of children at New Denver is continued. Demand urgent inquiry."

Commitments Abroad Stand Under Tory Government

OTTAWA (CP)—Little change in Canada's overseas commitments is foreseen under the new Progressive Conservative regime.

Observers say, indeed that these commitments may be extended by offers of economic aid to new and emerging independent Commonwealth nations.

The general feeling here is that if there are major changes in this country's commitments abroad—such as a withdrawal of troops from Europe—they would not result from the change in government here so much as a shift in the international situation.

In his Dominion Day speech in

May Curb Parking In Downtown Area

Twenty blocks on the fringe of the downtown area will be changed from unrestricted to two-hour parking if Victoria council accepts a recommendation made by its public works committee today.

The plan is to provide more room for short-term parkers, as most of the areas affected are now used by downtown workers who leave their cars in one spot all day. The new parking regulations will affect portions of Vancouver, Rockland, Quadra, Humboldt, Blanshard, Burdett, Herald and Chatham.

London, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, expressed strong support for the Colombo Plan. Canada has contributed $162,000,000 to this plan for economic development in south and southeast Asia since its inception in 1950.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it is his government's intention "to lend a helping hand, if we can, to some other countries as they enter the portals of independent and responsible government within the Commonwealth."

The Canadian government is taking immediate steps to send a high commissioner to Accra (capital of Ghana, new Commonwealth member) and one of his first assignments will be to explore needs and possibilities in the field of technical assistance.

Other overseas areas where Canada has commitments are Europe, the Middle East, India, China, Korea and Kashmir.

AT LEAST 18 MONTHS

It is considered unlikely here that Canada will reduce its NATO forces in France and West Germany—a 6,000-man infantry brigade group and 300-plane air division of jet fighters—for at least 18 months. That would be about the time that West Germany would have assumed its full share of western European defence.

Mr. Diefenbaker has already indicated Canada will maintain its 1,200-man contribution to the United Nations Emergency Force in Egypt.

The few remaining Canadian troops in Korea will be withdrawn this fall. This decision was arrived at by Commonwealth countries with troops in Korea before the Progressive Conservative government took office.

Replacements for Canadians serving on the international truce supervisory commissions in Indochina now are on their way there and it appears certain this commitment will be maintained for at least another year. There are more than 100 Canadians in Indochina.

SYNOPSIS — A Pacific disturbance brought rain to the northern coast Wednesday night and to the northern interior and northern Vancouver Island this morning. The disturbance is now weakening considerably and will give little further spread of rain to other areas of the province. However, it will give increased clouds to southern areas of the province later today and overnight.

Following the system is a flow of Pacific air that will give considerable cloudiness on the coast Friday but few showers. Interior points on Friday should be a little sunnier than today.

Moscow Youth Parley To Lure 200 Canadians

MOSCOW (AP)—Floyd Williston of Winnipeg, Canadian representative in advance planning for the sixth World Youth Festival here, said at a press conference Wednesday that 200 delegates are coming from Victoria.

The festival runs from July 28 to Aug. 11. The Egyptian representative, Dr. Allan, told the conference the Egyptian delegation's program will include a dance number by a group of young girls on the theme of "the recent aggression against Suez."

Health Chief Recommends Chlorination

PORT ALBERNI—City council has been advised by Dr. E. W. R. Best, medical director of Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, to chlorinate its water supply.

He said that the hazard of contamination is small, but that the council is obligated to take all reasonable precautions to protect the health of residents. His suggestion, contained in a letter to the council, was turned over to the health committee of the council.

STUDY COSTS

The committee was given the authority to inquire into the cost of establishing a chlorination plant. Another water problem came to light this week with the first reading by council of a by-law to outlaw canvas garden soakers, but it will not become effective until Sept. 30. Ald. Norman Odgers said immediate outlawing of the soakers would be "a restraint on trade" in this effect on merchants with stocks on hand.

Janice White Resumes Post as Lifeguard

LADYSMITH—Janice White, long-distance swimmer and unsuccessful challenger of Juan de Fuca Strait, has begun her second summer as lifeguard at the local swimming beach. Her salary was raised by a door-to-door canvass sponsored by Ladysmith Community Council, and necessary articles for life-saving and the swim classes she hopes to operate were donated.

'Missing' Anglers Row Home Tired

COMOX (CP)—Two Burnaby fishermen rowed wearily into a fishing camp just after midnight Wednesday as a large scale search was being launched by the rescue co-ordination centre in Vancouver.

The search was ordered after Joe Rigby and Jim McCall were reported overdue at a Little River sport fishing camp nine miles from Courtenay.

Operators of the camp said they asked for help when the two men failed to return at 11 p.m. after last being sighted at 8:30 p.m.

An RCAF crash boat from here was searching the area when the missing men rowed their 12-foot boat into camp. They said they had run out of gas on their way back.

Cowichan Bible Conference Camp Attracts Many

DUNCAN—Cowichan River Bible Conference camp opened on the holiday weekend with a rally Monday that attracted visitors from the Island and Mainland points.

It will continue throughout July and August at the camp grounds, six miles west of here, off Lake Cowichan Road.

Special sessions will include a children's camp, August 4-11, and a youth camp, August 12-18.

Among speakers to be heard during the week-end are Rev. F. Small, Winnipeg; Rev. O. J. Lewis, Pasadena, Calif.; Rev. J. M. Smith, Belfast, Northern Ireland; Rev. R. E. S. Tong, formerly of South Bend, Indiana, and now of Victoria, and many others.

It is understood that she fell over, and was not able to breathe in her new position.

The tragedy occurred some time between 2 and 3 a.m. Dr. E. C. Hart, Victoria coroner, is investigating.

Alberni Cafe Loses Licence For Liquor

A dining-lounge liquor licence issued to the Empire Cafe in Alberni has been cancelled, Liquor Control Board chairman Donald McGugan announced Wednesday here.

Owner of the cafe is Reginald Austen Scott. The action was taken following convictions for staying open after the approved hours and for serving liquor to a minor. Mr. McGugan said. Regulations governing such establishments make cancellation of a licence automatic after two convictions.

Longer Arm for Game Department

Expected to give game officials greater control over hunting activities in Gulf Islands is new patrol boat for Vancouver Island division of B.C. Game Commission. The 20-foot craft, which was put through test run Wednesday by game warden Jack Lenfesty (left) and acting-inspector Bob Sinclair, will be berthed at Canoe Cove. (Times photo by Strickland.)

Old Punch in New Parcel For Area Game Officials

It's wrapped up in a new package, but the British Columbia Game Commission has returned an old punch to its Vancouver Island division. Arriving at Canoe Cove this week was a sleek new clinker-built cabin cruiser which will enable enforcement officers to conduct regular patrols in southern Vancouver Island waters for the first time in more than 20 years.

The 20-foot PML2 made a pretty picture as it cruised off Swartz Bay on a trail run

Wednesday, but it may eventually look like bad news for some hunters.

It has been suspected for some years that some hunters who own their own boats have been in the habit of ignoring game regulations while visiting the Gulf Islands during hunting seasons.

NO SYSTEMATIC CHECKS
Although a launch has occasionally been rented for patrol work, it has been almost impossible to carry out systematic checks or promptly investigate reports of alleged violations.

For some years prior to 1935, the game department had a 22-foot boat—the Montrose—berthed at Sidney, and regular patrols were made through the islands. But when the Montrose was taken out of service, no replacement was made—until this week.

Also disposed of by the game department about 12 years ago was a launch used for patrol work in the Alberni Canal and adjacent waters.

In recent years, the only department boat in Island waters has been berthed at Alert Bay. However, this craft has seldom been used for patrol work along the Island's coast. Three other boats are in service in mainland waters.

Acting inspector Bob Sinclair, who was at the controls of the new boat during Wednesday's trial run, said the craft will have other functions besides patrolling between Victoria and Nanaimo.

The craft will also be available for emergency rescue work, assisting police, answering calls pertaining to game commission matters and some routine work.

SPEED OF 20 KNOTS

But it appears that the boat will be used mainly to keep a closer watch on shooting activities in the Gulf Islands. Activities of visiting hunters have stirred many complaints from residents of the islands during the past few years.

"We hope that the boat will act as a deterrent to boat-owning hunters who may be tempted to violate regulations," said Sinclair.

The speed of the craft should discourage most of those who may consider trying to outrun the patrol boat. It is powered by a 110HP motor and when Sinclair opened up the throttle, the PML2 picked up its bow and planed at a speed of 20 knots.

A powerful searchlight will aid in night operations and a siren should ensure attention when needed.

It appears that the game situation in the Gulf Islands will be well in hand next fall.

CENTURY CLUB

SOLARIUM DERBY

When the Solarium Derby raised the record derby total of $6,723.02 for the Queen Alexandra Solarium in 1954, Wes Fulton was the man in charge of the campaign.

But Wes is hoping that the distinction he now holds will be passed to Dick James, chairman of this year's derby committee, when proceeds from the July 21 fishing competition at Saanich Inlet are counted up.

Putting in many extra hours to help the derby committee toward its lofty goal of $7,000, Wes has qualified for the derby's Century Club by selling more than 100 tickets and hopes to raise the total to 400 in the next 16 days.

Tickets cost $1 each and all proceeds from the one-day derby, jointly sponsored by the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and Daily Times, will again go to the crippled children's hospital.

Top prize is a 1957 Fairlane Ford and there will be at least 30 fishing prizes up for competition on derby day.

You can purchase tickets from Wes Fulton, other members of the derby committee, sporting goods stores and boat-houses in the Victoria area.

HOCKEY DRIVE

It Looks Encouraging

The drive to give Victorians their own club in the Western Hockey League is away to an encouraging start.

Although no total has been announced of the money raised through applications for shares in the proposed club, Victorians appear to want to keep professional hockey in the city, if reception given the members of the shares sales committee are any indication.

Colin Kilburn, who is acting as general-manager and secretary-treasurer of the campaign, said this morning that he is greatly encouraged by the response from city fans.

GOLFERS PLAN AID

"The more shareholders we have, the better," said Kilburn. "We hope that this will be a community-owned club in every sense."

Kilburn has two committees working on the campaign, and has received additional encouragement from Victoria Farmers Baseball Club and a committee of city golfers.

Farmers will play a team comprised of pro hockey stars and members of the press and radio in a "Beizbol Night" game at Athletic Park July 12 while the golfers have planned a tournament to help publicize the drive.

Shares in the proposed club will be valued at $25 each. Monies received from applications for shares will be placed in a trust account until the minimum amount of $30,000 has been raised or until August 31. In the event the drive is unsuccessful, all monies received will be returned.

The form printed on this page may be used to apply for shares.

Pils Can't Shake Habit; Rocks Win in Stretch

Lose Seventh in Row As Rocks Regain Lead

Shamrocks 11, Pilseners 9
By DOUG FEDEEN

Losing can grow into a habit and Vancouver Pilseners appear in danger of becoming addicts of the drug of defeat.

Although the Pils never stopped trying as they dropped an 11-9 Inter-City Lacrosse League decision to Victoria Shamrocks at Memorial Arena Wednesday night, they seemed to accept their seventh straight defeat as a matter of course.

Shamrocks, on the other hand, although playing one of their poorer games through the early stages, found a little extra determination down the stretch as they nailed down the victory that moved them back out in front of Nanaimo Timbermen.

The Rocks get a chance to expand the margin to four points when they take on Salmonbellies at New Westminster tonight while the T-men go against Salmonbellies at Nanaimo Saturday before moving into Memorial Arena for an important date with the Irish next Wednesday.

Pilseners, who only a month ago were sailing along only two points out of the top spot, are now 12 off the pace and six points away from the third playoff berth with only 10 games left on their schedule.

Hustling back on defence, controlling the ball and waiting for good openings on attack Wednesday night, Pilseners held a slight edge through the first-half exchanges and appeared at least an even bet to rub off their losing habit against the off-olor Rocks.

Six Shamrock Goals on Power Play

Two goals each by Iain Fred Usselman and Shamrocks' Bob Dobbie left the clubs deadlocked at 2-2 at the end of the first quarter and the Pils kept the Rocks off balance with heavy stickwork as they carved out a 5-4 half-time lead.

Pilseners became less careful with the lumber in the third period and three penalties set the stage for a trio of Shamrock goals that put the Pils on the short end of a 7-6 count entering the final quarter.

Alex Carey evened the score with Jack Blonda in the penalty box early in the fourth session, but after Blonda restored the one-goal Victoria lead while the Pils Black was serving a penalty for playing the ball in the crease, the Pils seemed unable to rouse themselves for a last-ditch drive.

Two tallies by Alan Gill boosted the count to 10-7, and the Irish, possibly conserving energy for tonight's tussle, were able to coast the rest of the way although Bill Barbour sandwiched a pair of goals around a single tally by Don Sherry to bring the final score to 11-9.

Penalties hurt the Pils' chances just as much as the last-quarter lethargy. Shamrocks collected no less than six of their goals while playing with an extra man and the Pils counted only four times with a Shamrock in the penalty box.

Bremner, Druce in Action Tonight

A total of 26 minutes in penalties was whistled during the often-scrambled tussle with the youthful Vancouverites collecting 16 minutes of the total.

Pee-wee Bradshaw and Alan Gill carried a big part of the scoring load for the Irish: Gill, digging all the way, collected four goals and one assist, while the hustling Bradshaw rapped in one tally and received credit for five assists.

Don Sherry and Jack Blonda each notched two goals and an assist for Victoria. Blonda now has 48 goals and 24 assists for the Irish, while Sherry has 72 points and a 17-point lead over Bradshaw, who holds down the runner-up spot, 10 points in front of Nanaimo's Skip McKay. Usselman, firing a total of nine shots at goalie Gordie Johnston, steered four drives into the net, while Barbour matched his mate's four-point effort with two goals and a pair of assists.

Coach Whitely Severson plans three lineup changes for tonight's battle with the Salmonbellies. Bobby Bremner and Tommy Druce will replace 16-year-old Jim McNeil, who showed up well in his debut with the Rocks Wednesday night, and Al Davies, while Don Hamilton will take over goal-tending chores.

Canada Ousted In Soccer Play

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico swept its World Cup soccer elimination series with Canada Wednesday night by defeating the visitors, 2-0, before 75,000 fans in chilly Olympic Stadium. Mexico, which won the opening game Sunday, 3-0, led 2-0 at half-time.

Juvenile Title To View Royal

View Royal won the Copley's Excavating trophy as champions of the Greater Victoria Juvenile Boys' Softball League Tuesday, when they edged by MacNutt's Grocery 2-1 in a sudden-death playoff final at Topaz Park.

Ray Newall was the winning pitcher. He threw five-hit ball and also drove in what proved to be the winning run in the sixth inning.

MacNutt's only tally came on an unusual play that saw the fleet-footed Gerry Coldwell steal home from second base, after teasing the View Royal catcher into throwing to second as he took off.

Losing pitcher George Rowbottom dropped a heart-breaker as he allowed only two hits over the route.

Mexico now meets the winner of the Central America zone elimination matches for the right to go to the world finals in Sweden next year.

The Mexicans completely dominated the first half Wednesday night with better teamwork and superior speed.

FANS PROTEST

The stands roared with protest when the Canadians resorted to rough tactics after Mexico's inside right, Mellone Gutierrez scored in 10 minutes with a hard corner shot.

Gutierrez also figured in the second score at 28 minutes. He took the ball away from Canadian Mike Berez, who was dribbling down the field. Gutierrez kicked to left back Jose Villegas who butted the ball to left and Enrique Sesma.

Sesma's sizzling kick scored past Canadian goalie Ken Pears. The night was chilly, following an afternoon rain which the Canadians had wanted, to dampen the field for them and slow the speedier Mexicans.

The 1½-mile altitude seemed to bother the Canadians, unused to playing at such oxygen-scarce heights.

The Canadians stiffened in the second half and held the Mexicans scoreless. The visitors kicked two goals, but both times the ball was not in play and they did not count.

It was an unusual development as the local team in the past has scored more frequently in the second period after visitors have become tired due to altitude.

Outstanding for the Canadians in the second period was goalie Pears.

Bill Munroe, Name to Watch

Bill Munroe is fast becoming a name to be reckoned with in juvenile "B" lacrosse circles as he continues to lead Butler Brothers to win after win.

Wednesday night Munroe scored seven tallies and gave assistance on five others as the Butlers ran rough-shod over Oak Bay, blasting them by a 21-8 score.

YOGI ON RAMPAGE

Birdie Can Talk (Thank Goodness)

By THE UNITED PRESS

Birdie Tebbetts, a first-class conversationalist, may have talked Cincinnati into a pennant when he persuaded Hal Jeffcoat to stick to pitching instead of selling insurance.

Jeffcoat was all set to quit baseball when Chicago Cubs traded him to the Redlegs in November of 1955. He informed Tebbetts he had a thriving insurance business but Birdie convinced him there was a regular starting turn waiting for him in Cincinnati.

Besides, Birdie added, the Redlegs could always use his bat. That was illustrated clearly Wednesday when Jeffcoat used both his arm and his bat to defeat Milwaukee Braves, 7-5.

Although he required relief from Brooks Lawrence in the ninth, Jeffcoat helped his eighth victory when he contributed a key two-run triple in a sixth-inning four-run rally that broke a 3-3 tie.

St. Louis Cardinals edged Chicago Cubs, 5-4, in the only other National League game.

THOSE YANKS!

In the American League, the Yankees increased their lead to three games with a 10-0 rout of the Red Sox while Kansas City defeated second-place Chicago, 5-0.

Baltimore beat Washington, 8-3, and Cleveland blanked Detroit, 6-0. Del Emmit single with the bases loaded in the seventh broke a 3-3 tie and drove in the two deciding runs in Cardinals' triumph. Larry Jackson gained his 10th victory although he yielded homers to Walt Moryn and Dale Long and was relieved by Hoyt Wilhelm in the ninth.

Yogi Berra went on a rampage when he drove in eight runs with two singles and the 250th homer of his career in the Yankees' onslaught against Tom Brewer and George Susce, Jr. Berra's eight RBIs were three short of the AL record of 11 in one game held by Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees and the major league record of 12 set by Jim Bottomley of the Cards. Bob Turley gave up three hits and struck out 11 for New York's seventh straight victory.

TRUCKS WINS

Virgil Trucks and Tom Morgan collaborated in a five-hit shutout over the White Sox as Billy Hunter and Lou Skizas each hit homers for the Athletics. Trucks was the winner although Morgan relieved him in the sixth when Chicago loaded the bases. Dick Donovan was the loser.

Baltimore took advantage of six errors as Ray Moore registered his fifth victory at the expense of Washington. Senator first baseman Jim Lemon committed three of the errors, two of them in the second inning when Orioles scored five runs on only three hits. Victory boosted Baltimore within a half game of the fifth-place Tigers.

Cary Still Has Hopes For Crown

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UP)—Cary Middlecoff, the former U.S. Open champion, shot a one under-par 35-36-71 today to stay in contention for the British Open golf championship.

His two-round aggregate of 143 was four strokes behind the leader among the early finishers, Eric Brown of Scotland. Brown, who shot a four-under-par 67 Wednesday, came in with a 72 today for a total of 139.

Bruce Crampton of Australia was in second place among the early second-round finishers with 141, shooting a brilliant 68 today. Peter Thomson of Australia, seeking to win the title for the fourth straight time, had a second round 69, which gave him an aggregate of 142.

Ace in Warm-Up Of $29,000 Open

MONTREAL (CP)—A heavy downpour drenched the Isle-Mere golf course over night but did little to dampen predictions of record-breaking performances among 140 American and Canadian golfers entered in the annual $29,000 Open today.

The practice round was marked by a hole-in-one by Bob Hill, 26-year-old newcomer to the pro trail from Rochester, N.Y. Hill dropped an eight-iron shot into the cup on the 145-yard 10th hole Wednesday.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Larry Baker, 165, Indianapolis, out-pointed Gaspar Ortega, 174, Mexico City, 10.

Sharon, Ron to Defend Titles on Hard Courts

Sharon Whittaker and Ron Mitchell will find conditions somewhat different when they start out in defence of their singles titles in the annual Victoria City tennis championships Saturday.

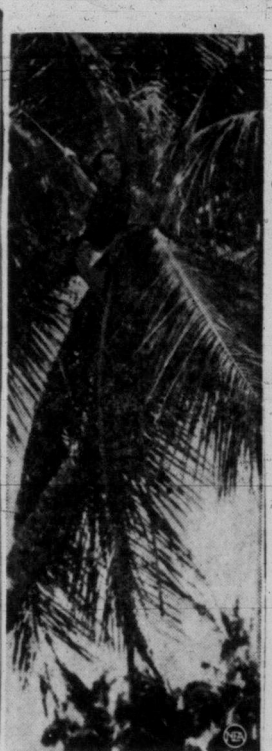

For the first time in many years, the city tourney will be played on hard courts. Formerly played on the clay courts of the Kingston Street Tennis Club, the championships have been held on grass courts for many years.

Asphalt will take the place of clay as the tourney moves back to hard surfaces at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, B.C. Electric Tennis Club and Carnarvon Park courts.

ENTRIES CLOSE FRIDAY

Switched from grass courts in an effort to lure more players from public courts and small clubs into the chase for titles, the tourney will have flights scheduled in each of the five divisions—men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles.

Flight competition ensures that each entrant will have a awaited Jimmy Gilbert when he climbed 25 feet up palm tree to play second shot in 17th hole of La Gorce Golf Club at Miami, Fla., in Southern Amateur tournament. Gilbert found three balls in branches, hit wrong one first and received two-stroke penalty.

Surrey's Bid Turned Down

The Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football League Wednesday night turned down an application bid for entry from a mainland team.

TIME OUT!

Turnabout Is Fair Play, Says Bauer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Bauer Wednesday sued Edwin Jones for $150,000 for arrest and malicious prosecution in the New York Yankee night club mixup.

The suit, filed in New York Supreme Court, asked $100,000 damages for false arrest and $50,000 for malicious prosecution.

The Yankee outfielder based his suit on the fact the New York grand jury refused to indict him after a civil arrest brought by Jones, a delicatessen owner, June 24. Bauer and a group of Yankee players were celebrating Billy Martin's birthday at the club May 16, when a disturbance erupted and Jones claimed Bauer hit him.

"After the grand jury threw out the case I waited for a telephone call or a letter of apology from Jones but I never heard from him," Bauer told newsmen after his suit was filed.

Jones still has a civil assault suit pending.

Bauer reiterated that he never hit anyone, and said the Jones suit caused him a lot of damage.

WHY WAIT? IAN DIDN'T AND HE'S GOT HIS ACE!

Ian Simpson appears to be a man who likes to get things done in a hurry.

While thousands of golfers have to wait years before they can even witness a hole-in-one, Ian gets right out and turns the trick.

He started playing the game in April and joined Cedar Hill Club last Tuesday. On Monday, in a pouring rain, he stepped up to the 14th tee and promptly holed out, turning a five iron on the 120-yard hole.

It was the second ace in two days in the city and the second within a week at Cedar Hill. Simpson's feat was witnessed by Howard Stanley, Norm Harris and Hec Vogler.

Marriage Always Has It's Few Little Problems

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (AP) — It's nerve wracking for married tennis couples, especially when the little woman is engaged in one match and keeps listening to cheers and groans from a nearby court where her husband is playing.

You can take the word of Jennie Hoad, wife of Australian star Lew Hoad, for this. "It's bad enough sitting in the stands watching your husband play," said Mrs. Hoad. "That makes me nervous. But when I'm playing and he's playing at the same time, that drives me crazy."

It happened to pretty little Jennie Wednesday. She and Mrs. E. van Nielsen of Denmark were playing two Mexican señoritas, Rosa Reyes and Yola Ramirez, in the women's doubles as Lew battled it out with Sweden's Sven Davidson for a place in the men's singles finals.

"I kept trying to tell from the noise what was happening on the centre court," Jennie said. "At times I couldn't concentrate on my own game."

The Mexican pair won. And Jennie hurried from the court to look at the scoreboard to see how her husband was doing. Defending champion Lew Hoad did all right.

He defeated Davidson 6-4, 7-5 to earn a spot against his countryman, Ashley Cooper, in the final Friday. Cooper eliminated another Australian, Neale Fraser, 1-6, 14-12, 6-3, 8-6.

Christine Truman, 16-year-old British star, was defeated, 6-1, 6-1, by Althea Gibson of New York today in the women's semi-finals, setting up an all-American women's final.

Earlier Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., gained the final by defeating Mrs. Dorothy Head Knodel of Forest Hills, N.Y., 6-2, 6-3.

CALL HIM "CURVY"—A yak who's sure to cause plenty of yakety-yak among visitors to New York's Central Park zoo is 30-year-old "Mickey." According to zoo officials, Mickey wasn't born with this reversed left horn. It got twisted in an accident when the yak was very young and, as it grew, gradually curved itself under his chin.

Indians to Honor Legless Air Ace

By RICHARD ANCO

Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP)—A man who built fame in the skies over Britain during the Second World War will be made an honorary chief this month of one of the most famous of North American Indian tribes, the Bloods of southwestern Alberta.

Douglas Bader, legless ace of the Royal Air Force and leader of the No. 242 Canadian Fighter Squadron in the Battle of Britain, will become an honorary chieftain of the tribe and a member of its select Kainai organization at the sun dance festival July 27.

The Kainai band is perhaps one of Canada's most exclusive clubs. Unique in North America, its membership is limited to 35 living persons and at present numbers 31.

VOLUNTEER AID

Non-sectarian and non-political, the Kainai has outfitted church school bands and bought workshop equipment for the church schools on the reserve. Members voluntarily subscribe whatever they wish once a year to help their blood brothers.

Among prominent names in the band are Earl Alexander, former governor general of Canada; Governor-General Massey; James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada; Premier Manning of Alberta and Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland; the Duke of Windsor, J. G. Gardiner, former federal agriculture minister; Col. S. T. Wood, retired RCMP commissioner, and Rod Cameron, the movie actor.

The Blood tribe, led since 1913 by Chief Shot-on-Both-Sides, a wise chief with sun and wind-toughened skin, has refused to surrender any of its reserve land granted them in a treaty with Queen Victoria.

WITH PARENTS AGAIN

Newest 'Wolf-Boy' Of India Recovered

By V. M. NAIR

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Parsram, an eight-year-old crippled boy found living with a wolf pack about seven months ago, is India's latest "wolf boy."

He has been reunited with a peasant couple who claim to be his parents.

Although he has greatly improved in health since he was rescued from the wolves' den, he still cannot walk or talk, and behaves like an animal.

He likes raw meat and laps up water like a wolf, is unusually restive and bites anything within his reach.

Until he regains his speech, experts can only guess at the story of the boy's six years with the wolf pack.

Parsram was spotted by a party of Indian soldiers on a hunting trip in the jungles of Uttar Pradesh. The soldiers were surprised to find an emaciated, crippled boy loping down on all fours to the river bank from a nearby den.

They took the boy and put him in a Ferozabad hospital. He later was turned over to the police, who gave him to a childless Brahmin for adoption. But the Brahmin discovered to his dismay that the child ate only raw meat and "howled like a wolf day and night."

Then the child was seen by a neighbor, who restored him to a peasant couple in the village of Jar-ka-nagla, near Agra, who claim to be his parents. Since then, the boy has been attracting crowds of curious spectators.

Parsram's mental capacity has been estimated by doctors to be that of a child of two.

THREE OF A KIND

Parsram is not India's first wolf boy. There are two others living in India today who claim to have been reared by wolves.

Man Singh, a 60-year-old domestic servant, is one. He is a docile, grey-haired old man with deformed hands and thin, rickety legs.

Man Singh claiming he was rescued in 1905 from a wolves' den near Mathura by an Englishman on a hunting trip.

He now lives with a Christian missionary, Rev. Noble David, near Allahgarh.

The most famous of India's

The sun dance site is in the heart of the 50-square-mile Blood reserve, about 40 miles south of Lethbridge. There are situated the sacred sand hills and the happy hunting grounds for departed spirits.

FORM OF THANKSGIVING

In essence the sun dance is a form of thanksgiving. The sun itself is not worshipped; it is a symbol of the creator.

In such setting Mr. Bader will be invested as a Kainai chieftain. Long peace pipes will be smoked and singers and dancers will explode into a crescendo of welcome for their new chief.

Young men in beaded garb will dance the chicken and owl dances, making music with the bells on their feet and arms as they shuffle and stamp through routines handed down for generations.

Ernest R. McFarland of Lethbridge, honorary chief Heavy Shields, is president of the Kainai, to which a member is elected for his humanitarianism and devotion. The Kainai has long desired to honor an outstanding hero of the Second World War and chose Mr. Bader, now manager of group aircraft operations for Shell Oil Company.

When he was 21 he lost both legs in an aerobatic display accident. But he taught himself to walk again on artificial legs and when the war broke out he rejoined the RAF.

From June, 1940, to August, 1941, he commanded 242 Squadron and was credited with 22½ Nazi planes before he collided with a German aircraft over France. He escaped from his crippled Spitfire by unstrapping one of his jammed artificial legs.

A prisoner until freed by American forces in April, 1945, Bader retired from the RAF the following year. Since then, besides his work with Shell Oil, he has taken an active interest in helping other amputees.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 25-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Darrell Corbin, age 13, of Seattle, Wash., for the question:

Who were the Incas?

In 1532, the Conquistadors carried the flag of Spain's empire to Peru. To their surprise, the Incas of Peru had also built a vast empire by conquest. Their territories bordered the Pacific, stretched over the slopes of the Andes and sprawled from Ecuador 3,000 miles down to central Chile.

The vast domain was governed from Cuzco in Peru. In this capital city dwelt, the Inca, the monarch of the Incas and of all the tribes and territories they controlled.

Cuzco was a handsome city with palaces, forts and storehouses of fine stone. For the Incas were highly skilled masons. Walls were reared of 20 to 30-ton stones, set into place without mortar. Those that still stand are so closely knit that a knife blade will not fit between the massive blocks. City houses and farm houses were also built of stone and roofed with thick thatch. Miles of stone causeways spanned the marshlands and stone surfaced roads linked the empire with its proud capital.

The empire's basic economy was in farming. The slopes of the Andes were dotted with well irrigated, terraced farms. Each was a cluster of sturdy stone buildings set on a wide ledge amid a series of wide terrace steps, where grew the crops. Chances are, a strong fort overlooked the peaceful scene, just in case the conquered tribes grew rebellious.

The Incas, who were the ruling caste of the conquered tribes, planned against famine among their subjects. In years of bounty, surplus crops were put into store houses. When crops failed here or there, food was drawn from the stores and sent to distress areas. The Incas were the only Indians to make use of draft animals and their burdens were carried by shaggy llamas. Records of the far flung empire were kept with colored skeins of knotted string. For those smart Incas never learned to write.

Apart from farming and government, the Incas found time for crafts, artwork and even music. They had flutes of cane and bone, trumpets made of shells and sweet toned bells of bronze and copper. There was metal smelting and bronze and other alloys were cast into fine molds. The Spaniards were most interested in the handsome vessels of gold and silver. But the art of the Incas reached its peak in the fine pottery which went unnoticed by the Conquistadors.

We have since pieced together the history of the proud Incas, bit by bit. The empire, it seems, sprang up suddenly long, long ago. The vast lands were conquered in a single century. Civil war among the conquered tribes was a problem before and during the Spanish conquest. The Incan empire could not withstand opposition on two fronts and it declined as quickly as it had arisen.

Today, the Incas of Peru are quiet farmers and craftsmen. In Cuzco, they still live in the ruins and often build on the foundations of the proud old city. They are the descendants of the ancient Incas whose power swayed over most of a continent. But the modern Incas are peace-loving home dwellers. They have no dreams of conquest or empire—perhaps, after all, they are happier this way.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Delaine Hathorn, age eight, of Shreveport, La., for the question:

Why does rain fall in drops?

A heavy shower crashes down with a great to-do. Surely a party of playful puppies and kittens are landing on the roof. But, of course, it never really rains cats and dogs, or even frogs and toads. It rains in drops of water and the biggest of them measure no more than one-fifth of an inch. There is a law of nature which makes it impossible for the rain to come down in buckets full or bathtubs full. This is very lucky for us, for the animals caught outside in a shower and also for the plants which would get washed clear out of the ground with such a dousing.

Rain forms in the clouds when conditions are just right to get the filmy moisture into liquid water. It starts to fall when it becomes too heavy to stay aloft in the air. The fall is delayed when an updraft of air is rising from the ground. But, sooner or later, the liquid rftn in the cloud gets heavy enough to break through the strongest rising current. Down starts the rain, sometimes in very large gobs.

It gathers speed as it falls and this speed is what breaks up the rain into reasonably sized drops. Big drops break into smaller drops when the falling rain reaches a speed of 18 miles an hour. Long before it dashes on the roof, the rain is all broken up into fairly small drops.

Air Attaches Appointed To Moscow, Belgrade

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of new Canadian air attaches in Moscow and Belgrade were announced Wednesday by air force headquarters.

Going to Moscow is Wing Cmdr. Sidney S. Mitchell, 40, of Montreal, a headquarters staff officer, while the Belgrade appointment goes to Group Capt. Joseph Albert Richer, 46, of Montreal, now with air defence command headquarters, St. Hubert, Que.

Ex-Newman Appointed Aide to Labor Chief

OTTAWA (CP)—Thomas Van Dusen, 35-year-old former newspaper man, has been appointed executive assistant to Labor Minister Starr. Mr. Van Dusen, a former member of the Parliamentary Press Gallery for the Ottawa Journal, later was chief information officer for the National Film Board.

Chicago Subway Fare Soars to New Record

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicagoans started paying one of the highest cash fares in the United States today for a ride within the city on a bus, trolley, subway or elevated train. The Chicago Transit Authority raised the fee—now 20 cents—to 25 cents in cash or 22½ cents if a token is used.

Plummer's Hamlet 'Down-to-Earth'

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON
Times Music and Drama Critic

STRATFORD, Ont.—Shakespeare's "sweet prince," played by a Canadian actor on Canada's renowned Elizabethan stage, provided a performance in this beautiful Festival Theatre that was a crowning achievement for all that has gone before.

It appears unquestionable that Christopher Plummer has qualities of insight and imagination that could carry him forward to become one of the great Hamlets of our time.

Seasoned Shakespearean devotees will disagree undoubtedly with some aspects of the interpretation.

They will find perhaps that the occasional note of adolescent uncertainty does not consort with tradition; that there is somewhat less of classical tragedy and more of down-to-earth realism about this prince.

But the fact is that when all furious arguments have died down when conventions, theories and hypotheses have been folded away, Plummer's Hamlet will remain for the most part, haunting in its emotional sincerity and power; piercing in its humanity.

After seeing many Hamlets, and being rather more intellectually engrossed than emotionally, I found myself at many moments, deeply moved.

This was a confused, sometimes terrified youth, seared with bitter resentments but without a man's ability to come to grips with his evil fortune.

A son yearning after the mother who has betrayed him; helplessly seeking a means to ease his responsibility for revenge.

As an overall impression, it must be said that the production flowed with an insistent, forward-sweeping rhythm, that it had been skillfully tuned as to contrasts of mood and tempo, that it was opulent in mounting and detail.

Against the neutral grey background of the apron stage, with its shadowed columns and flights of stairs, handsome costumes flared in a bold panoply of color.

Symbolism was apparent in the rich reds, apricots and golds worn by Claudius and Gertrude at the high tide of their fortunes, and in the chill twilight of blues, purples and greens that accompanied the ebb.

Entrance of the players could never be so effective on any other stage once seen in this theatre. They came in a whirlwind of color and seemed to fill the stage with a carnival spirit of confetti and carousel.

Among the cast were many whose performances marked a high point of accomplishment. William Hutt's Polonius, for instance, had many dimensions.

They Leave Them Laughing At Stratford

NEW YORK (CP) — The school of thought that says Shakespeare's comedies are no laughing matter, has been dismissed for the summer by director Tyrone Guthrie, says drama critic Walter Kerr of the Herald Tribune.

Reviewing the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean festival presentation of Twelfth Night, Kerr says the problem facing the players is to cut short the laughs "in order to get all the lines in by 11.30 p.m."

Of Douglas Campbell, in the role of Sir Toby Belch, Kerr says:

"Everything he does has the taste and tang of good wine about it, and it is the audience that shows signs of getting drunk."

Sir Toby's cronies are "equally, hilariously inspired."

Fine Totem Specimens Recovered From 'Cursed' Indian Village

Sections of 16 totem poles from an old abandoned Indian village, which suffered from the "white man's curse" in the Queen Charlotte Islands, have been salvaged and brought to Victoria by officials of the Provincial Museum.

An expedition led by Wilson Duff, provincial anthropologist, recovered the totem poles from Anthony Island, site of an Indian village on the West Coast of the Queen Charlottes.

Mr. Duff described the poles as the "finest examples of the best tribal art style on the Coast".

Two of the poles will go on display in the Provincial Museum shortly.

Replicas of the remainder will be carved by Chief Mungo Martin in Thunderbird Park for erection in provincial parks.

The totems belonged to one of the most powerful bands of the Haida tribe. In the 1800s a small trading vessel with a sick crew member brought a disease to the village which the natives were unable to resist.

The museum expedition was also composed of Michael Kew, of the Provincial Museum, and Dr. Harry Hawthorn and Dr. Wayne Suttles, of the University of B.C.

CRASH PROBE RE-OPENS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The inquiry into the crash of the Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star on Mount Slesse last December will resume here Tuesday, Coroner Glen McDonald said Wednesday.

He said a number of lawyers for relatives of the 62 persons killed in the crash want to attend the inquiry to get information on events before the crash from the RCAF, TCA and the department of transport. The last hearing was held at Chilliwack May 15.

"SWAP" & SHOP

till 9 this Friday

I BUY A CERTAIN AFTER-SHAVE LOTION because I will stink pretty-like. I switched to "Gleam" because a guy on the idiot-box told me it was for people who couldn't brush after every meal. I even tried Winston because "they taste good, like a cigarette should." I buy a new suit for WHAT IT DOES FOR ME... makes me look slimmer, or younger with that Ivy look... gives me shoulders, etc. BUT OUR ADS are awful... we hardly ever tell you what our furniture is GOING TO DO FOR YOUR HOME. We rave about how many drawers in the chest... that the wood is old world walnut... but there just ain't no romance in our efforts. There's just ONE thing that makes you buy a new bedroom suite, except the big screaming type which tells you what a heckuva bargain you are getting because thru our vast purchasing power we can hog up everything the Mfg. is making... yes only ONE thing prompts a new furniture purchase... WILL IT DO THINGS FOR MY HOME??

WE KNOW you are weary of Price Ads, despite the fact you like a bargain, but furniture at a fair price is NOT enuff. You want an attractive room at a fair price... and sister... WE'VE GOT IT. SO... come down this Friday nite

OPEN TILL 9 for the first time. Let's "swap" your problems for our furniture... it's all laid out in individual rooms with curtains & lamps, so you can more easily see WHAT IT WILL DO FOR YOU... and YOUR HOME.

'Prop-Riders' --- Old Idea, New Twist

By DON INGHAM

When Bill Muncey seared the surface of Elk Lake July 1 with his new 226-cubic-inch hydroplane, he presented a perfect example of the postwar racing development known as the "prop-riding" boat.

The design is not new to Victoria race fans. The lively Teasers raced by Jim Hutchinson of Vancouver are prop-riders, and very good ones, and the big unlimited hydros raced on Lake Washington in Seattle also ride the props.

But a television screen shows little of the big ones, and Hutchinson's little 135 cubic-inch racers are so small that one has to be close to be able to peer through the spray and see what is going on.

Muncey's boat was big enough to let people on shore get a peek underneath and see.

This type of craft is supported by two planing surfaces forward—actually just the front step of a single-step hydroplane with the centre portion removed—and by the propeller thrust aft.

The propeller, or "prop," gives most of its thrust in a forward direction, but because the propeller shaft is on a slight angle, a small portion of the thrust is directly upward. The boat is trimmed so that the amount of upward thrust is just sufficient to lift the stern clear of the water so that only the lower blade of the propeller is in the water at high speed.

An experienced designer can build his boat so that all requirements of balance and propeller efficiency are met. Actually, the very design itself helps to trim the boat, since when the stern is down at low speeds, the upward component of thrust is at its largest.

As the boat reaches toward its maximum speed, the upward component becomes proportionately less because the propeller is coming closer and closer to being at right angles to the surface of the water. The boat balances on the forward step, and a moderate amount of adjustment of engine, battery, fuel tank, or even ballast, can give the ideal trim fairly easily—once again, if done by an experienced designer.

Surface Propeller, Greater Efficiency

A question arising in discussions of this sort is—why the surface propeller, with only half of it in the water at once?

The answer is, for greater efficiency. In the older type hydroplane, or even the modern in-board runabout, there is a certain amount of hardware that must be pushed through the water, and which creates nothing but trouble for the propeller in the process. There is the shaft, the strut, and even the hub of the propeller itself. All are parasites that hinder the boat.

The surface propeller operates with all these parasites lifted clear of the water. All that is left in the water is the thrust-producing portion of the propeller, and because the forward step is in two pieces, the propeller acts upon water that has not been disturbed by the hull.

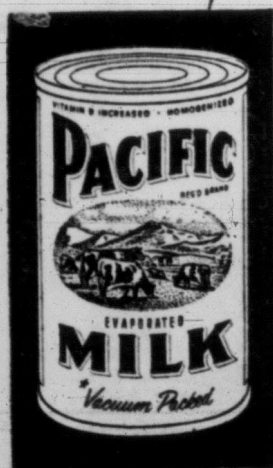

It is a much different propeller than the conventional wheel, having a wider blade, a knife edge forward, and a thick, square trailing edge.

None of the principles of the prop-riding are new, but it is the combination that has put boat speeds far beyond what could have been envisioned 10 years ago. For instance, the Hickman Sea Sled of the late '20s and early '30s used a surface wheel, and the three-point suspension system was obvious years ago to designers who tried to find a system to have all planing surfaces operating on unbroken water. In the old-style hydro, the rear step of necessity rode

PERONISTAS RIP AMERICAN FLAG

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Several hundred demonstrators shouting "Viva Peron" ripped down the American flag from a bank here Wednesday night.

Jaycees Map Centennial Party

OTTAWA (CP)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada, whose annual convention here has had many of the aspects of a big frolic, Wednesday decided to spearhead Canada's 100th birthday party.

The Jaycees adopted a resolution calling for setting up a committee to begin planning a 1967 centennial celebration "suitable to the occasion" and to work with the governments and other agencies concerned.

The committee, proposed by James Kelly of Moncton, N.B., a vice-president of the International Junior Chamber of Commerce, will likely be named at a meeting today of the new executive.

There was some serious business as the four-day convention ended Wednesday but for most of the 475 representatives of junior

YOUTH GETS BIG BANG OUT OF 'HARD CANDY'

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—Jon Discow, 15, put some Fourth of July torpedoes—small balls of explosive that go off when thrown against a hard surface—in his shirt pocket Wednesday along with some hard "chewing candy" balls.

Walking down a business district street, Jon reached into his pocket for some candy, popped the ball into his mouth and clamped down hard.

The "candy" ball exploded. Part of a tooth was blasted away. Jon's mouth was badly burned and his inner cheek pitted by powder.

1 Dead, 2 Burned In Gas Explosion

(From CP Dispatches)

FORT ST. JOHN—A gas explosion that wrecked a derrick at an isolated northern drilling site Wednesday resulted in one man's death and severe burns to two others. The gas well still was burning wildly early today.

The engineer at the drilling operation, W. E. Walton, 31, of Madill, Okla., died 12 hours after the blast while being flown to Edmonton for hospital treatment. Co-workers Earl Miller, 32, and Sandy Reese, 30, both of Fort St. John, suffered third-degree burns and were reported in serious condition at Edmonton.

Gas seeping from the 6,200-foot level in the uncompleted well touched off the explosion early Wednesday. The three injured men—how many were in the crew—were taken by helicopter to Fort St. John, where officials said all three were "horribly burned," and later flown to Edmonton.

The well site is about 30 miles off the Alaska Highway at Mile 95. Drilling equipment worth $1,000,000 was destroyed in the explosion and fire. The well was being drilled by Dominion Drilling Company of Edmonton for Sinclair Canada Oil Company.

The explosion indicated what authorities here described as a major Canadian natural gas discovery. However, neither Sinclair nor Dominion Drilling would comment officially.

COUGAR ATTACKS MAN

SQUAMISH—A hungry cougar attacked a bulldozer operator eight miles north of here Wednesday, tearing his trousers and clawing his leg.

Chris Wyssen, 26, of Squamish, said he was making a minor repair to his machine and looked up to see five cougars sitting on a log pile behind him.

One of them was only three feet from Wyssen when he jumped up and screamed. The cougar leaped at him, clawing his leg before he could get the bulldozer moving.

BOOTLEGGERS FINED

VANCOUVER—Bobbie Turner, 24, was fined $600 in police court Wednesday on two charges of bootlegging.

She pleaded guilty to selling liquor illegally June 4 and 18. Two men, Maurice Folsy, 30, and Leonard Fraser, 36, were

New Bridge Shunned By Motorists

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hundreds of Lulu Island commuters are ignoring Vancouver's new multi-million dollar Oak Street bridge and are lining up to cross the creaking old Fraser Street bridge.

By doing so they dodge the 25-cent toll on the new Marpole span, which opened Saturday. A survey Wednesday showed only 365 cars drove across the four lanes of the new bridge, between 8 and 9 a.m., compared with 810 on the Fraser bridge.

The lines of cars crossing the old bridge often moved slowly and sometimes came to a complete halt, but there were no traffic jams during the survey period.

TORONTO (CP)—Doctors removed the left eye of George Kielen, 10, shortly after it was punctured by a steel-tipped arrow shot from a bow by an 18-year-old friend.

MODERN STYLE GOV'T HOUSE ASKED BY VLC

A recommendation urging the provincial government to adopt a modern design for the new Government House was approved by the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday.

Betty Graham, office workers' representative, said union members felt the design for the new building should reflect the "present and future."

"We don't feel that the old building destroyed by fire was architecturally a building which British Columbians could be proud of," she said. "Even in the day it was constructed it was not regarded as an architectural wonder."

"All architectural designs should be able to stand up to international standards," she said. "As Canadians we should be able to design something which would reflect vision and aggressiveness."

ON THE COMEBACK TRAIL after being away from stage and screen for 14 years is Frances Farmer, once one of Hollywood's top young stars. She made her TV bow Sunday on the Sullivan show.

Mystery Shopper Undetected, Drops Hints for Next Week

Several Victorians looked $100 in the face Wednesday, talked to it—and walked away from it. The six-day shopping week mystery woman escaped detection.

The mystery shopper was "turned loose" by Victoria six-day shopping week committee to publicize the opening of stores on Wednesday afternoons during July and August.

On her second tour of duty next Wednesday, the prize will be doubled to $200.

It goes to the person who stops her and asks "Are you the six-day shopping week mystery woman?"

The prize could reach $500 by the last Wednesday of the month. If the mystery shopper is caught, it reverts to $100 the following week.

"I talked to quite a few friends and acquaintances," the mystery shopper told the Times by phone today.

"Won't they be mad. Several mentioned the large crowds and said they may have been looking for the mystery woman. But nobody asked if I were her."

"I got off a bus at 1:30 p.m. at Fort and Douglas. I went all through Eatons, then I went to a china shop on Government, walked up Government to Yates. I window-shopped for awhile, talked to some jewelry store clerks, then went down Douglas to the Bay."

"After touring the store I went back to Eatons."

The mystery woman will make it a bit easier next Wednesday — "How about a hint? Okay. I wear a size 12 dress and a size six shoe. But I don't know myself whether I'll wear a house dress, a suit, sportswear or what."

The six-day shopping week committee felt the first "open Wednesday" was successful. But many tourists reported a long-standing announcement that shops would be closed, was still being made on an inbound ferry from the United States.

Former 'Most Wanted' Man in City

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The leader of a former underground revolutionary movement who was once one of the most "wanted men" by Canadian and United States police, is visiting Victoria today on a mission of "peace and goodwill."

The man is 70-year-old Dr. Bhagwan S. Gyane of Los Angeles, Calif., chief of a former underground movement in Canada and the United States which fought for India's independence during the First World War and in the 20s.

The movement was known as "The Other Party," an international organization pledged to fight Britain until India won its independence.

"Those were fanatical days," admitted Dr. Gyane, who now wants to forget the past. "But it had to be so. India could not be friends with Britain until her people were treated as equals."

He said he became a fanatical nationalist when a Hong Kong policeman told him to take his shoes off when entering a white man's office.

He later became a "wanted man" in Canada and United States during the First World War for his activities in stirring up dissension among East Indians when the Allies were at war with Germany.

A stocky man who does not look his 70 years, Dr. Gyane says he is now devoting his life trying to "patch up" differences between races. He frequently lectures in U.S. universities and has written books on philosophy.

He has strong views on education. "He said people should not permit economics to block the building of better schools. "Small groups in various communities are trying to stop the institution of a broader educational system in schools because it costs money," he said. "They should not be allowed to stand in the way."

DR. GYANE

Inquest Called In Boy's Death

U.S. HOLIDAY BRINGS CROWDS

Victoria today was host to several thousand U.S. visitors, here to spend the Independence Day holiday on foreign soil.

Most of them were one-day trippers from Port Angeles. Both CPR and Washington State Ferries were comfortably filled on all scheduled trips, the transportation companies reported.

A one-day excursion from Seattle via CPR attracted 1,400 who arrived on the noon boat.

Inquest into the traffic death Wednesday of Thomas Michael Roberts, three, will be Friday at 10.30 a.m. at McCall's chapel.

The child, son of AB and Mrs. Harold R. Roberts, 344 Beckley, died about one and one-half hours after he was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday forenoon with multiple abrasions and internal injuries received in a collision with a bread truck near his home.

The accident occurred exactly three weeks before the tot's fourth birthday, July 24, and on the eve of a birthday party for his brother Clifton (Kip).

Survivors include another brother, Rickey, and grandmother, Mrs. R. Whitburn, also of 344 Beckley, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Roberts, Calgary, where Michael was born.

Truck driver Charles William Morrish, 1138 Faithful, apparently was drawing away from the curb on Rendall, a short distance from the Roberts home, when the child ran from the sidewalk into the side of the truck.

He carried the boy home and Mrs. Roberts drove her son to hospital.

BOY CYCLIST HURT IN DIVE OVER CLIFF

Nine-year-old Saanich cyclist Herbie West, 4385 Tyndall, rode his bicycle off a 12-foot cliff Wednesday afternoon and landed in a creek with head cuts, bruised shoulder, sprained wrists and badly cut left eye.

Saanich police said he went off a pathway leading from Mount Douglas Park to the beach, dropping almost vertically to the bottom.

Two other youngsters and Herbie's older brother Ken helped him out of the water and went for aid. Police took the lad to Jubilee Hospital for treatment.

MONTE ROBERTS

People keep asking me how our kitchen garden is getting along, so I guess I had better answer.

Well, I will have to start at the beginning. The space available for a kitchen garden at our place is not very extensive. Therefore, it was necessary to do a great deal of careful planning.

My Favorite Wife, of course, had to be consulted in the matter, and she was of great assistance.

For instance, my first step in planning was to block out an area in which to grow spinach.

So I pencilled in a large area and marked it "spinach." However, My Favorite Wife does not like spinach. She likes broccoli. And she thought my "spinach" area would be an ideal "broccoli" area.

So we compromised. We pencilled in "spinach or broccoli," and put aside the decision until a later date.

Next to the spinach-broccoli area, we decided to put in a root-type vegetable. Both MFW and I agreed that a root-type should grow next to a leaf type.

So I pencilled in "beets." I love beets.

However, MFW does not like beets. She likes turnips.

As you have already guessed, we pencilled in "beets or turnips," and went on to the next area to be planned before planting.

This time, I decided on green peas. I love green peas.

However, MFW does not like green peas. She likes green beans.

So we pencilled in "green peas or green beans," and at least had the satisfaction of knowing we agreed on one thing, i.e., green.

We then sat down to reach an area of agreement.

The area of agreement we reached on spinach vs. broccoli was, we could not agree, so we agreed to not grow spinach and also to not grow broccoli.

The area of agreement we reached on beets vs. turnips was, see above.

And, by the time we had thoroughly discussed every square inch of our garden, we found we had reached complete agreement to disagree.

So we agreed not to plant anything.

As I have always said, planning beats planting every time.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

An intercepting sewer from Kinner Beach to Clifton Terrace to redirect "fall-out" of sewerage from the bay will be installed within two weeks, Esquimalt municipal engineer John Graeme said today.

Sanitary inspector's report will determine whether or not the waters are safe for bathing at that time.

Besant Lodge of the Theosophical Society will hold a garden tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Boucher, 419 Belleville Street Saturday from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Home cooking and white elephant stalls will be featured.

All handicapped persons will be welcome at a business meeting of the League of the YWCA, 760 Courtney Street Friday at 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served. Transportation can be arranged by phoning Fred Blakeney at 4-1537 or 2-8315.

Firing practice on 90-m.m. anti-aircraft guns will be conducted today and Friday by Vancouver's 43 Medium Anti-Aircraft Battery and 24 MAA Battery, Trail-Nelson, in their annual militia summer camp at Albert Head firing point.

POLICE DOG FROM KENTUCKY LOCATED BY TIMES NEWS ITEM

An item in the Times Wednesday reporting that a police dog from Kentucky was missing here brought fast action.

The dog, a handsome, 11-month-old male named Adanac, was returned to the mother of the owner at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Here on a visit with his owner, Miss Dawn Trainor, he disappeared Monday. The report in the Times effected his return to Mrs. W. J. Trainor, 1246 Fairfield.

But Adanac is still a long way from home. His owner is now on her way back, by car, to her nursing job in Kentucky.

United States police have been asked to watch for her car and let her know Adanac has turned up.

Next problem: How to get the dog home.

A special meeting of Victoria council legislative committee will be held Wednesday at 2.30 for the study of 50 pages of proposed changes in the Municipal Act. The amendments were suggested by city solicitor T. P. O'Grady after the new act was published. They have been forwarded to the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention.

Victoria council finance committee today decided to advise the provincial government that Victoria ratepayers voted two-to-one in 1956 for evening sale of groceries by neighborhood stores. The committee will ask the new Municipal Act to be amended to permit the situation to continue. Since July 1, neighborhood stores may sell only perishable foods after 6 p.m.

A Saanich housekeeper knows what it feels like to be run over by a car—twice within seconds. Unhurt by the experience, except for a bruised right arm, Kathy Brown, 26, knows she had a close call.

Robert Watson, 3332 Wordsworth, called police at 9 p.m. Wednesday to say he had run over his housekeeper at about 1.30 a.m. Wednesday, that she had been to hospital and discharged.

He said he was driving his car into his driveway and saw what he took to be a coat lying in the way. He proceeded over it, then apparently realized it was more than a coat.

Unable to stop the car in that position, Mr. Watson had to reverse and go back over the "coat," which was Miss Brown, who at this point screamed.

She said she had blacked out and collapsed in the drive.

YOUNG MERCHANT AIDS SOLARIUM KIDDIES

Victoria's youngest businessman, Robert Unwin, 10, held his fifth annual carnival Wednesday in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium. Robert, centre, sold hot dogs and soft drinks to his friends and served tea to neighborhood ladies in the backyard of his home, 1842 Crescent Road. Wieners for hot dogs were donated by Hollywood Meat Market. He cleared $19 for the solarium youngsters. (Times photo.)

CORNELIUS MORIARTY
... "Mory" to all.

Ex-Victoria Newsman Dies

Cornelius F. Moriarty, 71, former staff correspondent and political writer in Victoria for the Canadian Press, collapsed and died Wednesday night while attending the races at Lansdowne Park on Lulu Island.

He suffered a heart seizure. Mr. Moriarty, known generally as "Mory," retired in 1950 after a career of 40 years with the national news gathering organization.

He started in 1910 as a Morse operator with the Western Associated Press, one of the four groups which united to form CP in 1917. Shortly after his retirement he moved to Vancouver.

"FATHER CONFESSOR"

A confidante of premiers, cabinet ministers and rank-and-file politicians, he covered sessions of the B.C. legislature for many years. He was almost a "father confessor" to many B.C. politicians.

He was secretary-treasurer of the legislative press gallery from 1930 until his retirement. He was one of five to hold honorary life memberships in the gallery.

A genial Irishman, he began his Victoria career as a telegraph operator taking news dispatches from all over the world on the Canadian press circuit.

But he was never content to be just a telegrapher. His native instinct for news kept him abreast of all the big stories of his time.

When automatic teletype machines superseded Morse keys during the 1930s "Mory" took on the full-time job as Canadian Press correspondent in Victoria.

His main duties were to cover the government and legislative happenings in the capital.

The widow survives in Vancouver. A son, Lou, was lost early in the Second World War while flying with Bomber Command out of England.

Funeral service will be held in Vancouver Saturday at 11 a.m.

Mayor Praises Bennett Plan For Capital

Premier Bennett's ambition to make Victoria "the most beautiful capital in North America," Mayor Percy Scourrah told a two-day convention of the Law Society of British Columbia and the B.C. section of the Canadian Bar Association at the Empress Hotel today.

The mayor followed up his boost for the government by urging visiting lawyers to look over the Dallas Road waterfront "and see for yourselves how well your money is being spent."

DOING GREAT

He said the Capital City Improvement Commission, set up by the government, was doing "great things" for the general beautification of Victoria and the improvement of its "tourist assets."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner also seized the opportunity to tell lawyers what the government is doing.

"At this moment," he said, "your premier is meeting with representatives of the lumber industry to try and avert a crippling strike."

"It will be fully evident from this that your government is not inclined to let the chips lie where they fall."

Mr. Bonner spoke of "the outstanding contribution" made by the legal profession to the history of British Columbia.

He said there is now one vacancy on the bench of the County Court and two vacancies in the Court of Appeal.

"This is a fact that should not go unnoticed by members of the bar as the result of recent changes."

FULL SCRUTINY

The attorney-general referred to the revision of rules of the Supreme Court and said: "We are anxious to have the fullest possible scrutiny before these revisions are made."

Elmore Meredith, QC, treasurer of the Law Society of British Columbia, who presided, expressed thanks to Victoria lawyer E. E. Pearlman, local convention organizer.

O. F. Lundell, QC, Vancouver, who is chairman of the society's legal aid committee, spoke of "misunderstandings" throughout the province regarding the functions of legal aid.

Broadly speaking, he said, free legal aid is given in civil matters in most cases where people are unable to pay for lawyers' services. "Exceptions are divorce and matrimonial causes where free legal aid is not given unless there is some factor which indicates that free legal aid would render a definite social advantage—for example, if children of

SOLICITOR'S LEGALESE DESPAIR OF CITY MAYOR

Mayor Percy Scourrah admitted today that city solicitor T. P. O'Grady often talks over his head.

"He is too technical for me at times and I understand he often gets a bit technical with his wife," the mayor told the Law Society of British Columbia and the B.C. section of the Canadian Bar Association at its two-day convention here.

"If he gave his wife an orange I imagine he would say 'I hereby bequeath this orange to you my next of kin for edible consumption... to the contrary notwithstanding.'" the marriage are being prejudiced."

The city solicitor, who is a delegate to the convention, laughed as heartily as anyone in the room.

Mr. Lundell said the Vancouver Bar Association is now conducting an experiment in criminal legal aid in the magistrate's court.

In practice it had found that many of these cases resulted in appeals or commitments to higher courts, where legal aid must be continued.

"No final conclusions have yet been reached in regard to this experiment," Mr. Lundell said.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson will be speaker at the Law Society's annual dinner at the Empress tonight.

Norris Elected

T. G. Norris, QC, was elected treasurer of the Law Society of British Columbia, in succession to Elmore Meredith, QC, at a meeting of the society here today.

The office of treasurer is the highest in the society and the treasurer is in effect the president.

Missing Couple Return After Playing Safe

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gotter of Seattle, missing from Miracle Beach, north of Courtenay, since 2.30 p.m. Wednesday, arrived back at their camp today after spending the night on Mitchell Island, in Georgia Strait.

They had left the B.C. Forest Service camp in their own boat, a 16-foot craft powered by two outboards and carrying life-saving gear.

Their 13-year-old daughter notified authorities Wednesday night when they failed to return, and a full-scale search was instituted today.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Gotter said a chop had sprung up while they were near the island. Rather than take a chance, they spent the night on the lee shore of the island and returned today when the sea was calm.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Lions: Empress Hotel, noon luncheon.

Victoria Auto Dealers Association: Pacific Club, luncheon, 12.10 p.m.

Port Angeles To Welcome Water Skiers

Port Angeles Chamber of Commerce will spread the welcome mat for four Victoria water skiers if they make a successful crossing of Juan de Fuca Strait Saturday.

But the reception will be brief because the skiers hope to turn right around and ski back to Victoria.

Plans are to take off from the Causeway here at 7 a.m., weather permitting. If windy the attempt—first known of its kind—will be postponed to Sunday or later.

Skiers are Neil Smith and Knute Johnson, who will be towed by a runabout with Bud McKay and Bud Kenutson at the helm, and Don Lowe and Cliff Johnson in a team towed by Ralph Beisgal and Elmo Johnson.

PARISH GARDEN PARTY SATURDAY

Plans are completed for the annual garden party of St. Matthias Anglican Church to be held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Heisterman, 611 Foul Bay Rd. Assisting with arrangements are, from the left, Mrs. W. E. Harris, president of the Evening Guild; Mrs. Heisterman, who will be the hostess; Mrs. A. J. Collison, and Mrs. H. Ludwig, secretary and president of the Woman's Auxiliary. Proceeds from the garden party, in which all groups within the church take part, will benefit the church building fund. There will be stalls of home cooking, needlework, superfluities, plants and flowers, candy and children's wear. Tea will be served and games played.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Easy-to-Carry Hose Made of Light Vinyl

By PENNY SAVER

What a job it is lugging a heavy (and usually muddy) garden hose from the front garden to the back and vice versa. It's much easier to buy another length of hose and leave it connected up, and since you can buy 30 feet of vinyl hose for only $1.99, it's commercial, too.

The hose comes in red or green, and is guaranteed for five years. I've tried it, and it's wonderfully light. It has the usual metal fittings.

FIT ANY SIZE

Pretty summer belts to wear with a cotton dress or skirt are made of interlocking plastic daisies. They adjust to any size—you just take off or add on daisies.

In yellow, blue, black, or pink with white or all-white, they're 98 cents.

Comfy plastic foam stuffs are useful for the bathroom or the beach, and come in an assortment of pastel colors. They are just 98 cents a pair.

Angel food or sponge cakes are popular right now to serve with fresh berries or peaches.

I found tube pans for sponge cakes in a square shape instead of the usual round. In heavy-duty aluminum, they would make a good kitchen shower gift at $1.79.

There are super round sponge cake pans, too. Small legs on the outside edge let you stand the cake upside down to cool without it touching anything, and the tube section lifts out so you can remove the cake easily. These are $2.45.

Noticed a new shipment of the popular silver-plated sugar tongs. They're made in England, and are $1 each.

I'll be happy to tell you where I shopped today if you call me at 2-3131.

Off to New York

Times fashion editor Nona Damaske left Patricia Bay Airport this morning to fly to New York, where she will attend previews of the fall and winter fashions, with 200 other fashion editors from Canada and the United States. Through her column—"In Step With Style"—Mrs. Damaske will pass on to you descriptions of the glamorous ensembles she sees and also tell you of some of the social events she attends in connection with the showings. Watch for her stories on this page during the next few weeks.

A CAC Fact

Did you know that the Canadian Association of Consumers handles a steady stream of complaints and questions from consumers? In the field of nylon stockings, for example, these are the questions that keep popping up: What do gauge and denier mean, what gauge and denier give the best wear, how can I tell I'm wearing the right size, why don't nylons seem to wear as well as they did after the war, how can I make them last? CAC is kept busy answering such questions and in this case their committee on hosiery has even prepared a program for CAC meetings. This is the kind of benefit that members of CAC receive.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Some Confused With Advice For Gaining Graceful Gait

A lovely walk is a beautiful thing to behold! I have written many times in this column about how to develop a smooth, flowing, graceful gait. However, letters which come to me make me realize that some advice which is given about how to walk is misunderstood by readers.

For instance, a recent letter shows confusion over the admonition to "place each foot directly in front of the other." Two of the usual defects in propelling ourselves along are: (1) The habit of wadding from side to side instead of reaching forward with each step. (2) Toeing out.

The advice to place each foot directly in front of the other should not be taken literally—it was designed to give you the feeling of doing so in order to counteract the two tendencies mentioned above. If you want to practice, draw a line and place the inside of each foot on the line.

Another mixer-upper: Some experts say, "keep the knees slightly bent while walking." They do not really mean for you to go about as though you are ready to take off for the hurdles, but rather suggest that you keep your knees relaxed.

Unless you have a feeling of relaxation in the knees you will over extend them and produce a jumpy effect as though you were on springs. When the knees are tense you will also find that your pelvis is in poor balance. The hips should be pulled under and the abdomen held in.

Directions for arm motion also bewilder many. Let your arms swing naturally as you walk, the right arm swinging forward as you step forward with the left foot and vice versa. However, if you swing them with a vigorous motion it is unattractive and makes you appear to be propelled along by your arms. Usually the arms should not swing much further forward than the middle side seam of your dress or suit.

Of course, when you are walking briskly outdoors for exercise the swing can be more emphasized.

Sketches Exhibited

The Victoria Sketch Club was entertained Saturday at the home of Mrs. Lillian Sweeney at a tea in honor of members who received first prize for the group exhibition. Paintings displayed were "Basque Landscape" by Miss Alice Carey; "The Mellow Light of Evening" by Miss Maude Lettice; "Peace River Country," by Mrs. N. M. Bardshaw, and "Winter Dance," by Miss S. Gibson, convenor for the Victoria group.

Eighteen members were present, including Misses Maude Bruce, Alice Carey, Maude Lettice, S. Gibson, Dorothy Lowe, Betty Newton, G. Snider, D. Cox, Walker, H. Walsh, and Mrs. N. M. Bradshaw, Mrs. B. Mallock, Mrs. F. Press, Mrs. P. M. Robinson, Mrs. Lillian Sweeney, Mrs. V. Trueman, Mrs. M. Jarvis, Mrs. H. Evans, and Mrs. B. W. Biggin.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Hostess gift in lieu of wedding gift:

In a few weeks, I will be visiting a couple who were married two years ago, at which time the bride was a Catholic and the bridegroom wasn't. The husband is now taking instruction in the Catholic Church, where they will have a religious marriage ceremony. My visit will coincide with the Louise Davis marriage and I am wondering if a wedding gift is in order.

Louise Davis answers:

No, but it would be nice to take your hostess a gift as most people do when they go visiting. [The time for a wedding gift was when they were originally married, whether there were many people present or none but themselves and their witnesses. What they are doing now is to have the marriage sanctified by the Catholic Church. Their marriage in a few weeks surely won't be a wedding in the true sense, meaning bridal attendants and a reception. I doubt if they would be so foolish as to have the "works." If you didn't send the couple anything when they were first married, and if you feel that you would still like to do it, wait until you have returned from your visit.

You will have a better idea as to what they might like or need. I suggest that you don't have it wrapped as a wedding gift, for that would be an anti-climax. Enclose a card with just your name on it. No explanation is needed, for the couple will read between the lines. Just remember that on your visit you are not going to a wedding.

Sidney Church Realizes $575 at Garden Party

A perfect June afternoon and the lovely garden at the Experimental Farm home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Woods, near Sidney, combined to attract a large crowd of parishioners and friends to the annual garden party of St. Andrew's Anglican Church, held Wednesday afternoon. A record sum of $575 was realized.

Rev. R. Melville and Mrs. Melville received the many guests. Highlight of the party was a display of handicrafts made by residents of the Saanich Peninsula. There were hooked rugs, cut and polished stones, copper work, earthenware and stone ware, pottery, silk screen work, petit point and crochet, tapestries, articles made of driftwood, paintings, weaving, and many other crafts.

MANY HOBBIES

Capt. G. Hansen, 87, had an exhibit of handmade tool boxes; 14-year-old Michael Morris showed samples of silk screen work as well as his paintings; David Hemmings, 15, showed radio kits he had made; young John Woods had a tanned coon skin on display; G. Burkman had made a lamp from a piece of oakwood off an old ship. There were 40 exhibitors, among them W. Jones, Rex Colquhoun, Mrs. Swayne, Mrs. D. Jackson, Mrs. S. Magee, Mrs. L. Goddard, Mrs. C. Dalton, Mrs. W. Taylor, Mrs. L. Gaze, Mrs. I. Thompson, Mrs. D. Horton, A. E. Holder, D. Godwin, Mrs. D. Butler and Mrs. Besley.

ARTICLES FOR SALE

Home cooking was sold by Mrs. F. M. Sowden, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. M. F. Gray, Mrs. L. J. Power and Mrs. G. W. Cook; a white elephant stall was managed by Mrs. B. Bolli, Mrs. M. Roberts, Mrs. G. M. Terrie, Mrs. F. J. Baker, Mrs. B. W. Andrew and Mrs. Pope; parcels were checked by Mrs. G. Irwin and Mrs. J. H. Cummins.

Afternoon tea was served at tables set in the shade of the trees. Food for the tea was provided by the Ladies' Guild and servers were members of the Woman's Auxiliary. Of special interest was the stall manned by Mrs. G. R. Stuart where samples of cake made from the favorite recipe of Her Majesty the Queen were sold, with copies of the recipe. Dainty little Misses Susan Hemmings and Toni Adamson entertained with dances on the lawn. F. J. Baker was treasurer and in charge of gate receipts were E. Charles and J. Power.

SAYS CANADIAN WOMEN'S LEADER

Family Visits Will Lead to Understanding

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—A Canadian women's leader said today world peace depends a lot on women in different countries getting to know each other better.

Mrs. J. W. Adams, leader of a 30-member Canadian women's delegation, said this would prevent nations from blowing each other to bits with hydrogen bombs.

The Canadian group flew from Singapore today to Colombo where they will attend the conference of the Associated Country Women of the World.

KNOW EACH OTHER

Mrs. Adams, who comes from Ethelton, Sask., speaks for the group whose members represent women's organizations across Canada.

She told reporters before the delegation flew from Singapore "if families living in different parts of the world can come to know each other there will be peace."

Mrs. Adams said: "To achieve this more women should visit each other's country."

"A woman who has seen another family is certain to return home and tell all about it to her children."

"In this way families from different parts of the world will come to understand each other."

Mrs. Adams was asked whether men could do this task.

"No," she replied. "A man will never bother to tell his folks about other's families."

In Honor of the Bride

Miss Margaret Rainey, July bride-elect, was honored Tuesday evening at a kitchen shower given by Mrs. Nelson Crisp.

The gifts were presented in a decorated clothes basket. Mrs. J. Rainey, mother of the honor guest, and Mrs. L. Rimmer, mother of her fiancé, were given corsages of white gladioli and purple violas, and the bride received gardenias. The table was ornamented with white candles and a bouquet of Esther Reid daisies in a milk-white fluted vase. Guests attending the shower were Mrs. A. D. Straith, Mrs. N. W. Crisp, Mrs. H. Nielson, Mrs. D. McNeill, Mrs. J. W. Rainey, Mrs. D. Burley, Mrs. B. Ruddock, Mrs. J. Thompson, Mrs. R. Straith, Mrs. J. Hurley, Mrs. G. Thompson, and Misses Barbara Brown, Jean Crisp and Carol Neilson.

Miss Patricia Curtis, to be married this Friday, was honored last week, by two miscellaneous showers. The first was arranged by the bride-to-be's office friends, at the home of Mrs. F. Druce. Miss Curtis was presented with a corsage of red roses, and her mother, Mrs.

A. A. Curtis, received pink carnations.

The next shower was held at the home of Mrs. Norman McEwen. The guests included Mrs. A. Curtis, mother of the bride, Mrs. E. Munro, Mrs. T. Bruce, Mrs. A. Cowan, and Miss Barbara Hill. The gifts were arranged in a gaily decorated box, and Miss Curtis was given red carnations.

Anybody Know What Is at Stake?

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The only question about the Floyd Patterson-Pete Rademacher heavyweight bout in Seattle, Wash., is whether it will be for the championship of the world or of Washington, the former's manager said Tuesday.

Manager Custer d'Amato in a telephone interview from New York with Gene Asher, Atlanta Journal sports writer, said the National Boxing Association is "senseless" not to sanction the Aug. 22 bout.

He held that Rademacher, amateur champion who has never gone more than three rounds, is a perfectly legitimate opponent for Patterson, world champion. Reminded that the Seattle go is for 15 rounds, d'Amato declared:

"Rademacher is an extraordinary man. He is psychologically and physically prepared."

The Columbus, Ga., amateur began training Monday at Lake Huston near his home. His trainer, George Chermers, declared Tuesday that he already is in fine condition and the main problem is to moderate his training to keep him from reaching his peak ahead of time.

So far the state of Washington is the only NBA unit to approve the fray. If this situation prevails, the contest will be only for the championship of that state.

Girl Wonder On Net Squad

LONDON (AP) — Christine Truman, 16-year-old unseeded wonder girl who slammed her way into the semifinals of the Wimbledon championships Tuesday on her first crack at the women's tennis crown, was picked Tuesday night for Britain's Wightman Cup team.

The six-member British team will meet American girls in the Wightman Cup contest at Pittsburgh, Aug. 10-11.

Besides Miss Truman, the youngest-ever member, the British chose two other teenagers, Ann Haydon and Sheila Armstrong, both 18. Experience will be represented by Ann Shilcock, Shirley Bloomer and Mrs. Mary Halford, captain.

One surprise omission from the team was Angela Mortimer, Britain's top woman player in last year's rankings.

Underdog Cuts Ortega's Hopes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Larry Baker blasted his way to the ring heights Wednesday night by out-pointing Gaspar Ortega, the No. 2 welterweight challenger, in a 10-round battle.

The split decision may have cost Ortega, the heavily favored Mexican, a winter title fight with welterweight champion Carmen Basilio. Ortega, a 3-to-1 favorite in Wednesday night's battle, was in line for a shot at Basilio this fall until the champ signed to meet middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson.

GREENS ARE COSTLY ITEMS

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — It happened here during the British Open golf championship this week.

A cat chased a mouse across the 18th green in the midst of the title play. But the dour Scots, to whom golf is a mighty serious game, saw nothing funny about it.

All that was said was: "I hope the animals don't hurt the green."

Ranger Training Starts Sept. 16

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Rangers will report Sept. 16 at the Rhode Island Auditorium in Providence, R.I., fall training base for a second straight year, general manager Muzz Patrick announced Tuesday.

Among those competing for National Hockey League jobs on the forward lines will be five prospects from junior ranks: Bill Sweeney and Ed Shack, Guelph, Ont.; Mel Pearson and Ted Hampson, Flin Flon, Man.; and Orland Kurtenbach, Prince Albert, Sask.

Grid Traveller, West Joins Lions

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Herb Capozzi, general manager of the British Columbia Lions, announced Wednesday that much-travelled halfback Dave West will line up with the Western Football Conference club for the 1957 season.

Capozzi said West, who played for Hamilton last season, has not been waived out of the Big Four, but he indicated it would be a matter of time.

West, a Canadian, is no stranger to the western conference having played for Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton and Saskatchewan before joining Hamilton.

Egyptians Elect Handpicked House

CAIRO (AP) — A heavy turnout of Egyptians voted Wednesday to elect a parliament hand-picked by President Nasser to give his military-dominated regime a more civilian face.

It was Egypt's first parliamentary election in 7½ years. The legislature elected in 1950 was suspended in 1952, after the military overthrew King Farouk.

With 75 candidates unopposed and five districts without a candidate, the voters had a choice of sorts for 270 of the 350 seats in the lower chamber. For the first time in Egyptian history women candidates—five of them—were in the field.

Vancouver Bandsmen Play Hard for Fun

One of the busiest military units in Victoria today is the band of 43 MAA Regiment, RCA, from Vancouver, now at Work Point Barracks for two weeks of summer training with the rest of the regiment.

Although the band has been here not quite a week, it already has played at the sergeants' mess at the barracks, the Veterans' Hospital, Queen Alexandra Solarium, Royal Jubilee, and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

"We also played on the deck of the boat coming over here, and led the Sidney Day parade," said the band sergeant, Staff Sgt. J. H. Walker.

The band meets all its military obligations, yet gives away evenings for the entertainment of others. If it has an afternoon date, it makes up the time taken at some army function in the evening.

One of its big events is a yearly party for Esquimalt

Optical Firms Business Under Ottawa Review

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Government anti-combines authorities here declined to confirm a report that the restrictive trade practices commission would be taking a second look at the Canadian optical industry.

Appeals by eye specialists in Vancouver against income tax assessments have aroused interest in Ottawa and have come to the attention of the anti-combines people. But there is no indication that apart from examining the cases, any further action is contemplated by that division of the justice department.

In 1948 the then combines commissioner F. A. McGregor made a report in which he found the existence of a combine in the optical industry. However, evidence on which the report was based had been obtained prior to the war and no charges resulted.

Mr. McGregor's report stressed the spread between costs and prices to the eyeglass wearer. Protection provided the industry through patents was also examined in Mr. McGregor's report.

Some aspects of one of the recent Vancouver cases have aroused interest here, however. Evidence brought out during the hearing of an appeal by an eye specialist against the department of revenue's ruling that proceeds from certain shares in an optical company were income and not capital gain, are of particular interest.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina Wednesday night banned travel to Russia on grounds that the Soviet government is blocking return of persons lured from Argentina by Communist propaganda. About 4,000 persons are estimated to have left Argentina for the Soviet Union.

$8,000 Asked For Return Of Que. Boy

QUEBEC (CP) — The mother of an 11-year-old boy, missing from his home for seven days, said Wednesday the family has been asked for $8,000 ransom for the safe return of the child.

Mrs. Paul Boutin, whose son, Guy, disappeared from a Boy Scout camp at nearby Chateau Richer last Wednesday, said a woman asked for the money Tuesday night at a prearranged meeting with her husband. The woman identified herself as Frances Michele.

A provincial police spokesman said he is convinced the woman was trying to make money by taking advantage of the boy's disappearance. He said there is no indication the boy was kidnapped and "he doubted the woman had any knowledge of his whereabouts."

The woman told Mr. Boutin she represented a third party who knows where the boy is. The woman said she works for a Montreal detective agency.

Hunger, Disease Sweep Iran in Wake of Quake

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Hunger, thirst and sickness today plagued the 500,000 Iranians living in the earthquake-battered area around the south end of the Caspian Sea.

Families who fled to the countryside after the violent shocks Tuesday faced the additional hazard of attacks by wild animals. Wolves were reported to have injured several persons who fled to the woods.

The known official death toll was 750, with prospects of rising to more than 1,000. More than 3,000 persons are missing but many of these are believed to have found safety in the country.

Fifteen hundred persons were seriously injured in north Iran, more than 100 villages wrecked and property worth more than $12,500,000 destroyed.

CAVENES, France (Reuters) — Roman Catholic pilgrims from all over France are clamoring daily to enter a sealed church here to witness a "miracle."

The diocesan bishop ordered the medieval church closed following reports that groans and wails had emanated from a tomb.

The tomb contains the body of Farther Augustin Taulieu, former parish priest of this village in southern France. He predicted on his death bed 80 years ago "three miracles will come to pass during the next century."

Villagers said the first miracle occurred a few months later when the priest's body was dug up for reburial in the church. They said flowers in his coffin were as fresh as on the day of his funeral.

During mass on May 15, this year, seven villagers said they heard a long drawn-out wail from the coffin, followed by a heavy groan. A few days later, groans and wails were reported heard again. Thousands of pilgrims have since flocked to the church, only to find it closed.

Chinese Minister To Toe Red Line Under Pressure

TOKYO (UP) — The second of three ministers in Communist China's cabinet who have been accused of "right wing activities" bowed to Red pressure and recanted, Peiping radio reported today.

Communications Minister Chang Po-chun presented himself before the Anhwei province delegation of the National People's Congress meeting in Peiping Wednesday and bitterly lashed his own "anti-party, anti-Socialist" activities.

Forestry Minister Lo Lung-chi who failed to appear for another tongue-lashing from the Kiangsi province delegates Wednesday had "apologized" for his actions earlier on June 27.

MACMILLAN 'HOPEFUL' ON TRADE TALKS

LONDON (Reuters)—
Prime Minister Macmillan said today he was "very hopeful" a satisfactory conclusion will be reached on a Canadian proposal for a Commonwealth trade conference.

Ousted Russian Leaders Under House Arrest

WARSAW (AP)—Polish sources reported today that the three prominent Russian Communists expelled from party leadership in the Soviet are under house arrest.

MALENKOV

The three are former foreign minister V. M. Molotov, former premier Georgi Malenkov and Lazar Kaganovich.

Dmitri Shepilov, former foreign minister and also ousted from party leadership, is not under house detention, the source said.

The strength of the denunciation against the expelled group astounded Communists here.
One said it lacked only the charge of spying to make it read like accusations which sent former Soviet Security chief Lavrenti Beria before a firing squad.

The Communist organ Try-buna Ludu said the Moscow communique constitutes "the gravest possible accusation for a Communist—an accusation that the group wanted to turn the party backwards to methods of activity condemned by the 20th congress."

Trybuna implied that the ouster carries a warning for the Polish "natoin" group of Stalinists which still is vocal in private party caucuses.

"Experience teaches us that there is no greater danger to the workers' party than 'actional-ism,'" it said.

"The central committee of the Soviet Communist party has indeed appraised this so. Hence the energetic struggle against a factional group in defence of the unity of the party and its correct policy."

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Russia followed up its purge of top Communist leaders today by firing three top leaders from government jobs.

Moscow radio said these three men, among five dropped Wednesday from the Communist party's Praesidium, have lost their government posts:

V. M. Molotov, 67, who was first deputy premier and minister of state control.

Georgi Malenkov, 55, who was first deputy premier and minister of power stations.

Lazar Kaganovich, 64, who was minister of building materials and a first deputy premier.
The latest Moscow announcement gave no indication of the ultimate fate of the men, accused of anti-party activities
—a crime that usually meant death in the days of dictator
Joseph Stalin.

Hurricane Town Safe

St. Laurent Governor? Tory Official Says So

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—
Well-informed Progressive Conservative sources said here Wednesday night Prime Minister John Diefenbaker will name two Quebec Conservatives to the senate as well as recommend that former Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent be made the next governor-general.

The two new senators would be Quebec finance minister Onesime Gagnon, a former minister in the Bennett government, and Quebec city lawyer Mark Drouin, an ex-chief organizer for former Conservative leader George Drew.

Frederick Dorion, member of parliament for "new Quebec" area, would be appointed to the superior court bench in Quebec, they added.

The sources said St. Laurent would definitely lead the Liberal Opposition when parliament meets in the fall, but that he is expected to be named governor-general Vincent Massey's successor.

"It would be a well-deserved appointment, and all Canadians would love it," a Conservative party spokesman said.

Premier's Final Bid Fails; IWA Strike Starts Friday

LADIES GRACE THE BAR

John D. Delays Session For Arrival of Queen

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker strongly indicated that the opening of Canada's 23rd Parliament will be delayed until mid-October, enabling the Queen to be present.

During the election campaign, Diefenbaker promised the new Parliament would meet in September. Since then, he said, complications have arisen, and "I don't think there will be any great condemnation" if the opening is delayed until the Queen's arrival.

One complication inhibiting a September opening is the fact that the Canadian Parliament buildings will be occupied until Sept. 28 by an international postal congress.

WONT LEAVE IWA

In a question-and-answer session with reporters, the prime minister also:

Declined to deny or confirm the substance of a Manchester Guardian story saying he had delivered a "broadside" at Wednesday's meetings of Commonwealth prime ministers. The Guardian says "temperatures rose sharply" at the meeting after an "outspoken" speech by the Canadian leader on the subject of American investment in Canada.

Said there are good grounds for speculation that three Commonwealth prime ministers—
Menzies of Australia, Suhrawardy of Pakistan and Nkrumah of Ghana—will be seen in Ottawa in the next few weeks or months. Menzies is definitely visiting Ottawa July 21-24 and the others are likely to come.

Said there has been no change in Canadian policy on the recognition of Communist China.

BUT NO FINALITY YET

"There is no finality in that stand," he said. "Recognition is something more than a concept based on juridical principles. There is still a large body of Canadian opinion which feels that the action of recognition would be taken by people in various parts of the world as a victory for communism and as having a detrimental effect on some of those who are in opposition to communism."

Called the Colombo plan one of the "most meritorious" of the projects for helping underdeveloped countries and said he sees no reason in principle why aid might not be similarly available to other "needy and requisite" nations, particularly in Africa.

Said he has been encouraged by the number of people in British "business and finance" who have spoken favorably to

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Grant that today, O Lord, we will be sensitive to human need, so that some people we meet shall come to know Thy goodness, and in that process we shall not be a hindrance but a help. On crowded city streets, in noisy factories, in the monotonies of military service, and in the familiarities of small town life, may Jesus Christ be clearly seen through the lives of his followers.
Amen.

Gale Rips Ontario, Kills 2

TORONTO (CP)—Heavy rains and hurricane-force winds struck Southern Ontario Wednesday night and early today, smashing barns and power lines, uprooting trees and causing the death of at least two persons.
Three other persons were known to have been injured, one critically, in the violent storm's destructive march south and west of Lake Simcoe.
A 14-year-old boy was struck by a car and he died when a tree collapsed on the roof of an island cottage in Lake Simcoe near Lindsay.

The injured included two women in the cottage and a truck driver who suffered head cuts when a toppling tree mangled his cab.

The storm uprooted big trees, snarled power wires, cut communications to whole communities and flattened crops along a narrow stretch of farmland north and east of Toronto between Lake Simcoe in the north and Lake Ontario in the south.

Altogether, 30 thunderstorms were reported the breadth of southern Ontario. Rain fell from Michigan to Montreal.

Nehru Hails PMs Parley As Success

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India said today he is "certain" the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers "is serving a useful purpose."

"You would mistake the nature of these conferences if you think we meet together to frame some bold adventure in policy," the Commonwealth statesman said at his first major press conference since the prime ministers began their meetings nine days ago.

Nehru described Prime Minister Diefenbaker as "one of the leading personalities at the conference."

"He is a gracious and fine man and we have met in a friendly way."

Asked to give his reaction to Diefenbaker's suggestion that the next prime ministers conference be held in Ottawa, the Indian leader replied: "I would welcome it."

Nehru said his country has "no intention of suddenly withdrawing" the Indian contingent from the Canadian-dominated United Nations Emergency Force in Egypt.

Ocean Race Starts

LOS ANGELES (UP)—
Thirty-four of the world's fastest yachts headed for the open seas today in the start of the 2,225-mile trans-Pacific yacht race from Los Angeles to Honolulu.

Bare Facts of Nude Case Poser, Or...Must the Show Go On?

LONDON (AP)—A blushing male jury was called on Wednesday to weigh up one of the most perplexing questions of the year:

Is a girl in a tiny Bikini less nude than a girl in a G-string when posed in a cageful of lions?

Jean Quinn, a striking, 23-year-old brunette showgirl, raised the issue in a lawsuit against The Daily Sketch.

Jean accused the paper of saying, or implying, that she was nude—i.e. in a G-string—when she was in fact wearing a Bikini, and with sequins on it. She asked appropriate damages.

The trouble all began a few weeks back when one of the nudes failed to show up for the big lion cage number in the show The Nudes of Paris at Southampton. Actually, the show's nudes weren't quite—they wore G-strings.

Mrs. Quinn, wife of the show's producer and mother of a 17-month-old daughter,

Coast Lumbering Shutdown Slated To Begin 10 a.m.

An 11th hour bid by Premier Bennett to stave off a strike of 32,000 coast woodworkers failed today.
Barring a last-minute change of heart, which seemed unlikely at noon, the strike will begin at 10 a.m. Friday.

Almost 12,000 men will be idled on Vancouver Island, including 1,500 in the Victoria area.

Representatives of the IWA and Forest Industrial Relations, bargaining agent for 137 coast operators, reported to the premier this morning following the breakdown of their negotiations Wednesday.

At the end of the 90-minute meeting the premier admitted that negotiations were deadlocked.

"I tried every means possible to get them together but..."
the premier said.

At the same time the premier disclosed that the union has come down from its original demand of a 20 per cent wage increase to 12½ per cent.

The operators, who originally said they could not afford to grant any increase, have offered 5 per cent.

Neither side would budge.

'Worked as Hard as I Could'

Asked to comment on what effect the strike will have on the provincial economy, the premier declined, and shrugged.
"I've worked as hard as I could."

While stating that today's meeting was friendly, Premier Bennett said "what is needed is more goodwill between both groups."

"They need more confidence in each other in bargaining."

Talks between the two parties collapsed acrimoniously Wednesday. Both sides issued bitter statements.

Government Has Own Troubles

Some 11,600 provincial civil servants have threatened to walk off their jobs if the government does not answer their demand for full bargaining rights and a 13-per cent average wage increase.

The B.C. Government Employees Association has given the government until next Wednesday to reply. So far there has been no comment from government officials.

Nearly 5,500 coast salmon net fishermen have been on strike for almost two weeks.

Other threatened strikes involve 4,000 lower mainland carpenters and 3,000 operating engineers on construction projects all over the province.

Thousands of other workers would be affected by walkouts in these industries.

The IWA dispute doesn't involve the pulp and paper industry directly but there could be a forced close-down when present log supplies are used up.

The lumber strike will have a crippling effect on the provincial economy.

A $500,000,000-a-year business, it provides more than half B.C.'s annual income.

On Vancouver Island alone an army of 12,000 loggers and sawmill workers, that earns an estimated $880,000 each week, is ready to "pull the pin" if the strike is called.

In the Victoria area the major employers affected are B.C. Forest Products, Canadian Puget Sound Lumber and Timber at Jordan River, Butler Bros.,
Goodridge Sawmills at Sooke, Harbor Sawmill, P & W Sawmill, Smith Cedar Products, Crowe Gonnason and Sooke
Lake Lumber.

Up-Island the strike will have an immediate affect on whole areas. Lake Cowichan and the lakeside communities of Youbou, Mesachie Lake, and Honeymoon Bay live exclusively on income at Alberni and Port Alberni.

The Alberni, in fact, where MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. have sawmills, plywood plants,
and pulp mills, are considered to have the greatest concentration of IWA membership in B.C.

According to union officials there are 1,500 members in Victoria and district, 4,500 in Lake

Cowichan-Duncan-Nanaimo, 3,600 in the Alberni, and 1,200 in Courtenay-Campbell River.

In all four areas picket teams have been formed, and all workers are ready to stop work sharp at 10 a.m.

Operators have been expecting the strike, and have acted accordingly. Where possible, production of logs has been kept closely in step with mill demands in order to keep the number of logs in storage at a minimum.

In addition, contractors requiring lumber have built up their stocks as much as possible in order to be able to keep working during the strike.

Pulp mills appear to be in a precarious position. Although workers at the mills at Harmac, Port Alberni, Duncan Bay, and Port Alice are in the Pulp and Sulphite Workers' Union, the flow of logs is in jeopardy.

At Duncan Bay, near Campbell River, the company has three booms on hand. Others are in storage at Gowlland Harbor, at Quadra Island, and the IWA says they will be picketed. Harmac, near Nanaimo, has poor storage ground, and the IWA says that only those logs under tow at 10 a.m. Friday will be allowed to continue to their destinations.

No new logs will be picked up, union officials said.

The strike could well be a long one. Some operators have expressed alarm, but a good many are quite prepared to remain shut down through the summer and not worry about reopening until the fall.

The union also is adamant.

John Squire, Alberni MLA and recording secretary of the big Alberni IWA local, said today the majority of men are "disappointed" with the wage offer of 5 per cent, and want parity with other industries.

"They are prepared to fight for it," he said.

At Courtenay crews are ready to strike not only for higher wages, but for settlement of certain grievances that have been rankling since signing of the 1954 contract.

MORAL SUPPORT

An appeal to all labor unions to give moral support to the IWA strike was made at a meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night by Ed Haw, financial secretary of the Victoria IWA local and a council vice-president.

Mr. Haw said the IWA for the time being was not intending to call for financial support.

"But what we want is your moral support and co-operation," he said.

Here is the chronology of negotiations leading up to the strike:

Negotiations began last March. Besides the 20-per-cent wage increase, the union asked for a union shop agreement, increased vacations and more statutory holidays.

The employers maintained they could not grant any wage boost because the market for lumber and wood products was so poor. Talks broke down after two weeks—on March 29.

The two parties tried again in mid-April under the chairmanship of former B.C. attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

Mr. Wismer and the employer nominee on the board, in a majority report, recommended that negotiations be put over until Oct. 1. The report did not discuss the wage issue.

OPPOSED

The IWA objected strongly to the majority report, saying that if accepted it would deprive them the right to strike if negotiations broke down again in the fall.

Floods Ravage Big U.S. Area

CHICAGO (BUP)—Floods surged across four states today and a new squall line pounded the northern plains, adding more moisture to already soaked farmlands.

A violent strike vote was ordered to take place last Wednesday. On Tuesday afternoon, Premier Bennett wired both sides to meet with him in his office later in the week in an effort to break the deadlock.

In the official vote, the IWA membership voted 90 per cent to back strike action.

At a meeting Friday, Premier Bennett succeeded in getting the disputants to re-open negotiations.

There have been two previous strikes in the B.C. lumber industry since the end of the Second World War—one in 1946 and the other in 1952.

The worst was five years ago when the industry was shut down for 45 days at an estimated overall cost to the province of $15,000,000.

Diefenbaker

The prime minister plans to fly back to Ottawa Friday night and will hold a cabinet meeting Saturday. He disclosed he had been invited to visit the republic of Ireland as the guest of Prime Minister de Valera, but declined because of the pressure of time.

Asked to comment on the shake-up in Russia, whereby five party leaders have been dismissed from the Praesidium, the Canadian leader said: "It is a most amazing situation. One wonders whether or not the changes mean that the army will assume more importance in the general set-up than ever before."

On the question of a proposed full-scale Commonwealth trade conference, he reiterated that there is an "open invitation" for Commonwealth finance ministers to visit Ottawa late in September to consider the feasibility of such a conference, perhaps early next year.

CAUTIOUS ABOUT SESSIONS

Diefenbaker was cautious in replies to questions about proceedings at the current Commonwealth conference, which ends Friday noon.

He was particularly wary in discussing the Guardian story about the alleged "broadside" he had delivered at Wednesday's meeting. He had seen "lots of speculation" about what goes on at Commonwealth conferences, and not all of it was true.

The Guardian story says: "For the first time, since the Commonwealth prime ministers gathered... the temperature rose sharply yesterday... the cause was an outspoken speech by Mr. Diefenbaker, which proved to be one of the bluntest statements made so far. It is not certain that the Canadian leader intended to administer such a shock to his colleagues, but what he had to say about outside investment clearly came as a very great surprise to some of his opposite numbers..."

The paper quotes Diefenbaker as saying that in some lines of business in Canada as many as 70 per cent of the firms are entirely under American control.

Why waterproof and self-winding?

A Rolex watch is made self-winding, not to save you the trouble of winding it up, but to increase its accuracy by creating a constantly even tension on the mainspring. But, to obtain this greater accuracy, the mechanism must be protected from all harmful substances, such as water, dust, dirt and powder. The Rolex Oyster Perpetual is guaranteed waterproof; it winds itself infallibly. The robust construction of the movement means that it can be worn for 24 hours a day, no matter how strenuous your work or games. It is thus supremely accurate and dependable.

We invite you to call and inspect the Rolex Oyster Perpetual and our range of Rolex watches for ladies and gentlemen. If you cannot call, let us send you a catalogue free, of course.

Diefenbaker Denies Rumor On Wheat

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today there is no foundation, "in directly or otherwise," for suggestions that Canada may be thinking of withdrawing from the International Wheat Agreement.

He was replying to a question from a reporter who said there were rumors in Winnipeg that Canada might be contemplating withdrawal.

In reply to other queries about wheat, Diefenbaker said his hopes of disposing of some of the Canadian surplus are "very much higher" than when he arrived in London June 24.

"I believe a very considerable avenue has been opened which will lead to advantages to Canada," he said without elaboration.

Earlier, he said wheat is Canada's "No. 1 problem" and that naturally he is doing what he can in London to seek "ways of moving" the surplus.

MOTORIST RAM RUNAWAY CAR

TORONTO (CP)—Police said an unidentified motorist prevented a serious pileup in morning rush hour Wednesday when he drove his car into a runaway auto to slow it down, then jumped out of his car into the runaway and guided it to the curb.

The car went out of control at a busy intersection when the driver, Donald Tong, 56, an electrician, died of a heart attack at the wheel.

City Jaycees Win 3 National Awards

The Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce won three awards at a recent national convention of Jaycees in Ottawa, for community and social projects carried out in the city over the past year.

The convention ended Wednesday, and was attended by Victor Fuggle, retiring president of the Victoria Jaycees, and five other members.

The Junior Chamber won the civic beautification award for its "paint-up, clean-up" campaign. Christmas lighting contest and the "Welcome to Victoria" floral mat at the Inner Harbor.

The contest was opened to chapters in communities of 30,000 population and over.

It received second prize in the government and civic affairs competition.

The Victoria group also was awarded the International Friendship scroll presented to the club that fulfills the most inter-chamber visits in the U.S.

Remotely Controlled Substation In Saanich Opened by Reeve Ash

Proof of the past growth of Saanich, and expectations of future growth, was given Wednesday when the B.C. Electric George Tripp substation on Lochside Drive was declared officially in business.

"It is estimated 65,000,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity were sold here last year," said Thomas Ingledow, vice-president and executive engineer, at an opening ceremony. "This station can deliver 250,000,000 kilowatt-hours, therefore can handle loads four times as large as those of today."

The automatic station, built at a cost of $944,000, and with associated facilities that cost $105,000 was activated by Reeve Ash in a symbolic ceremony.

It was put on load from Bay Street substation. All operation will be from Bay Street, and there will be no staff at the station.

Reeve Ash also unveiled a plaque in honor of the station's namesake, former general superintendent of operations for the company on Vancouver Island, who died in 1946.

The substation is designed to serve the Saanich area, drawing power from both Jordan River hydro station, and the 132,000-volt submarine cable from the mainland.

E. W. Arnott, company vice-president on Vancouver Island, conducted the ceremony, witnessed by about 30 company officials and Saanich council members and senior department heads. With him on the platform were H. L. Purdy, executive vice-president, and R. H. B. Ker, Vancouver Island director of the company.

TAKEN ON TOUR Following the ceremony the visitors were taken on a tour of the installation, and were shown the news capacitors which will absorb the fluctuations caused by sudden demands, and provide an even flow of electrical power to the 13,000 commercial and private consumers in the municipality.

After the tour the party was entertained at a reception and luncheon at Royal Colwood Golf Club.

Health Chief Recommends Chlorination

PORT ALBERNI—City council has been advised by Dr. E. W. R. Best, medical director of Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, to chlorinate its water supply.

He said that the hazard of contamination is small, but that the council is obligated to take all reasonable precautions to protect the health of residents.

His suggestion, contained in a letter to the council was turned over to the health committee of the council.

STUDY COSTS

The committee was given the authority to inquire into the cost of establishing a chlorination plant.

Another water problem came to light this week with the first reading by council of a by-law to outlaw canvas garden soakers, but it will not become effective until Sept. 30. Ald. Norman Odgers said immediate outlawing of the soakers would be "a restraint on trade" in this effect on merchants with stocks on hand.

'Missing' Anglers Row Home Tired

COMOX (CP) — Two Burnaby fishermen rowed wearily into a fishing camp just after midnight Wednesday as a large scale search was being launched by the rescue co-ordination centre in Vancouver.

The search was ordered after Joe Rigby and Jim McColl were reported overdue at a Little River sport fishing camp nine miles from Courtenay.

Operators of the camp said they asked for help when the two men failed to return at 11 p.m. after last being sighted at 8:30 p.m.

An RCAF crash boat from here was searching the area when the missing men rowed their 12-foot boat into camp.

They said they had run out of gas on their way back.

Nanaimo Harbor Labelled 'Nothing But Septic Tank'

NANAIMO—Central Vancouver Island Health Unit has warned against swimming in the city's harbor, which Archie Hill, senior sanitary inspector of the unit, called "nothing but a large septic tank."

Three main sewers empty into the harbor at the Nanaimo Yacht Club, Eureka Sawmill and Madill Shipyards, he said, and a survey of harbor currents some years ago showed that sewage cannot be washed away once it has entered the harbor.

Also found unsafe for swimming was Chase River, but Departure Bay, Millstone River, Long Lake, Westwood Lake, and Nanaimo River have been given clean bills of health.

UNDERGROUND CHIEF FOUGHT FOR INDIA'S INDEPENDENCE

Former 'Most Wanted' Man in City

By HUMPHREY DAVY

The leader of a former underground revolutionary movement who was once one of the most "wanted men" by Canadian and United States police, is visiting Victoria today on a mission of "peace and goodwill."

The man is 70-year-old Dr. Bhagwan S. Gyane, of Los Angeles, Calif., chief of a former underground movement in Canada and the United States which fought for India's independence during the First World War and in the 20s.

The movement was known as "The Other Party," an international organization pledged to fight Britain until India won its independence. "Those were fanatical days," admitted Dr. Gyane, who now wants to forget the past. "But it had to be so. India could not be friends with Britain until her people were treated as equals."

He said he became a fanatical nationalist when a Hong Kong policeman told him to take his shoes off when entering a white man's office.

He later became a "wanted man" in Canada and United States during the First World War for his activities in stirring up dissension among East Indians when the Allies were at war with Germany.

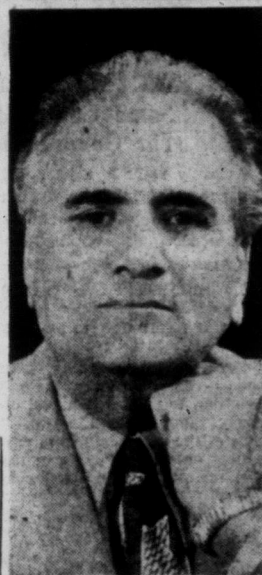

A stocky man who does not look his 70 years, Dr. Gyane says he is now devoting his life trying to "patch up" differences between races. He frequently lectures in U.S. universities and has written books on philosophy.

He has strong views on education.

He said people should not permit economics to block the building of better schools.

"Small groups in various communities are trying to stop the institution of a broader educational system in schools because it costs money," he said. "They should not be allowed to stand in the way."

Inquest Called In Boy's Death

Inquest into the traffic death Wednesday of Thomas Michael Roberts, three, will be Friday at 10.30 a.m. at McCall's chapel.

The child, son of AB and Mrs. Harold R. Roberts, 344 Beckley, died about one and one-half hours after he was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday forenoon with multiple abrasions and internal injuries received in a collision with a bread truck near his home.

The accident occurred exactly three weeks before the boy's fourth birthday, July 24, and on the eve of a birthday party for his brother Clifton (Kip).

Survivors include another brother, Rickey, and grandmother, Mrs. R. Whitburn, also of 344 Beckley, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Roberts, Calgary, where Michael was born.

Truck driver Charles William Morrish, 1138 Faithful, apparently was drawing away from the curb on Randall, a short distance from the Roberts home, when the child ran from the sidewalk into the side of the truck.

He carried the boy home and Mrs. Roberts drove her son to hospital.

BOY CYCLIST HURT IN DIVE OVER CLIFF

Saanich police said he went off a pathway leading from Mount Douglas Park to the beach, dropping almost vertically to the bottom.

Two other youngsters and Herbie's older brother Ken helped him out of the water and went for aid. Police took the lad to Jubilee Hospital for treatment.

MONTE ROBERTS

People keep asking me how our kitchen garden is getting along, so I guess I had better answer.

Well, I will have to start at the beginning. The space available for a kitchen garden at our place is not very extensive. Therefore, it was necessary to do a great deal of careful planning.

My Favorite Wife, of course, had to be consulted in the matter, and she was of great assistance.

For instance, my first step in planning was to block out an area in which to grow spinach.

So I pencilled in a large area and marked it "spinach."

However, My Favorite Wife does not like spinach. She likes broccoli. And she thought my "spinach" area would be an ideal "broccoli" area.

So we compromised. We pencilled in "spinach or broccoli," and put aside the decision until a later date.

Next to the spinach-broccoli area, we decided to put in a root-type vegetable. Both MFW and I agreed that a root-type should grow next to a leaf type.

So I pencilled in "beets." I love beets.

However, MFW does not like beets. She likes turnips.

As you have already guessed, we pencilled in "beets or turnips," and went on to the next area to be planned before planting.

This time, I decided on green peas. I love green peas.

However, MFW does not like green peas. She likes green beans.

So we pencilled in "green peas or green beans," and at least had the satisfaction of knowing we agreed on one thing, i.e., green.

We then sat down to reach an area of agreement.

The area of agreement we reached on spinach vs. broccoli was, we could not agree, so we agreed to not grow spinach and also to not grow broccoli.

The area of agreement we reached on beets vs. turnips was, see above.

And, by the time we had thoroughly discussed every square inch of our garden, we found we had reached complete agreement to disagree.

So we agreed not to plant anything.

As I have always said, planning beats planting every time.

YOUNG MERCHANT AIDS SOLARIUM KIDDIES

Victoria's youngest businessman, Robert Unwin, 10, held his fifth annual carnival Wednesday in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium. Robert, centre, sold hot dogs and soft drinks to his friends and served tea

Hospital Order 'Not Good Enough'

Increases in per diem grants to B.C. hospitals by the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service are not sufficient to warrant any wage increase this year at St. Joseph's Hospital, medical superintendent Dr. E. N. Boettcher said today.

The hospital is still facing a deficit in 1957 operational budgeting, he stated.

Royal Jubilee Hospital administrator George Masters said the increases will allow Jubilee to pay for increased services and wages given in the past year.

The hospital granted 7 per cent increase to seven unions this spring.

"Balancing the budget will still not be easy, but it will be easier," he added.

Dr. Boettcher said, "The announcement of a partial thawing in the wage freeze order is a welcome one. However the budget allowances granted to St. Joseph's Hospital are not sufficient to provide for any increases in wages."

"The present increase in per diem rates is sufficient to cover our salary costs on the basis of 1956 salaries."

"However, adjustments made in 1957 in the form of added annual increments and the general increases granted to graduate nurses for 1957, have not been provided for in this budget and the hospital is facing a further deficit this year but we hope to review our budget with BCHIS."

"Any further increase in wages at this time appears impossible."

He pointed out the hospital is "very budget conscious" and among other economy measures, has shut down one 12-bed ward for the summer without "let-down on admissions" and is taking every possible step to reduce the length of patients' stay in hospital.

A directive from the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service released Wednesday allows increases in the per diem rates of some hospitals—including St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee—and makes provision for wage increases in some cases.

The per diem grant—the amount paid by BCHIS to the hospitals for each patient-day—is increased from $15.80 to $16.85 for Jubilee and $14.55 to $15.85 for St. Joseph's.

Throughout the province, hospitals are now authorized to increase their wage scales retroactive to last Jan. 1 to the 1956 level of those hospitals paying the highest rates.

Increases above this level will not be recognized.

The $1 a day charge to patients for public ward accommodation is not affected by the changes.

A similar, but smaller relaxation of the 1955 hospital "freeze" order was made last year.

Port Angeles To Welcome Water Skiers

Port Angeles Chamber of Commerce will spread the welcome mat for four Victoria water skiers if they make a successful crossing of Juan de Fuca Strait Saturday.

But the reception will be brief because the skiers hope to turn right around and ski back to Victoria.

Plans are to take off from the Causeway here at 7 a.m., weather permitting. If windy the attempt—first known of its kind—will be postponed to Sunday or later.

Skiers are Neil Smith and Knute Johnson, who will be towed by a runabout with Bud McKay and Bud Kenutson at the helm, and Don Lowe and Cliff Johnson in a team towed by Ralph Beisgal and Elmo Johnson.

Missing Couple Return After Playing Safe

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gotter of Seattle, missing from Miracle Beach, north of Courtenay, since 2.30 p.m. Wednesday, arrived back at their camp today after spending the night on Milenatch Island, in Georgia Strait.

They had left the B.C. Forest Service camp in their own boat, a 16-foot craft powered by two outboards and carrying life-saving gear.

Their 13-year-old daughter notified authorities Wednesday night when they failed to return, and a full-scale search was instituted today.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Gotter said a chop had sprung up while they were near the island. Rather than take a chance, they spent the night on the lee shore of the island and returned today when the sea was calm.

SOLICITOR'S LEGALESE DESPAIR OF CITY MAYOR

Mayor Percy Scurreh admitted today that city solicitor T. P. O'Grady often talks over his head.

"He is too technical for me at times and I understand he often gets a bit technical with his wife," the mayor told the Law Society of British Columbia and the B.C. section of the Canadian Bar Association at its two-day convention here.

"If he gave his wife an orange I imagine he would say 'I hereby bequeath this orange to you my next of kin for edible consumption . . . to the contrary notwithstanding.'" the marriage are being prejudged."

The city solicitor, who is a delegate to the convention, laughed as heartily as anyone in the room.

Mr. Lundell said the Vancouver Bar Association is now conducting an experiment in criminal legal aid in the magistrate's court.

In practice it had found that many of these cases resulted in appeals or commitments to higher courts, where legal aid must be continued.

"No final conclusions have yet been reached in regard to this experiment," Mr. Lundell said. Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson will be speaker at the Law Society's annual dinner at the Empress tonight.

Norris Elected

T. G. Norris, QC, was elected treasurer of the Law Society of British Columbia, in succession to Elmore Meredith, QC, at a meeting of the society here today.

The office of treasurer is the highest in the society and the treasurer is in effect the president.

CORNELIUS MORIARTY

Ex-Victoria Newsman Dies

Cornelius F. Moriarty, 71, former staff correspondent and political writer in Victoria for the Canadian Press, collapsed and died Wednesday night while attending the races at Lansdowne Park on Lulu Island.

He suffered a heart seizure. Mr. Moriarty, known generally as "Mory," retired in 1950 after a career of 40 years with the national news gathering organization.

He started in 1910 as a Morse operator with the Western Associated Press, one of the four groups which united to form CP in 1917. Shortly after his retirement he moved to Vancouver.

"FATHER CONFESSOR"

A confidante of premiers, cabinet ministers and rank-and-file politicians, he covered sessions of the B.C. legislature for many years. He was almost a "father confessor" to many B.C. politicians.

He was secretary-treasurer of the legislative press gallery from 1930 until his retirement. He was one of five to hold honorary life memberships in the gallery.

A genial Irishman, he began his Victoria career as a telegraph operator taking news dispatches from all over the world on the Canadian press circuit.

But he was never content to be just a telegrapher. His native instinct for news kept him abreast of all the big stories of his time.

When automatic teletype machines superseded Morse keys during the 1930s "Mory" took on the full-time job as Canadian Press correspondent in Victoria.

His main duties were to cover the government and legislative happenings in the capital.

The widow survives in Vancouver. A son, Lou, was lost early in the Second World War while flying with Bomber Command out of England.

Funeral service will be held in Vancouver Saturday at 11 a.m.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

An intercepting sewer from Kinver Beach to Clifton Terrace to redirect "fall-out" of sewerage from the bay will be installed within two weeks, Esquimalt municipal engineer John Graeme said today.

Sanitary inspector's report will determine whether or not the waters are safe for bathing at that time.

Besant Lodge of the Theosophical Society will hold a garden tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Boucher, 419 Belleville Street Saturday from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Home cooking and white elephant stalls will be featured.

All handicapped persons will be welcome at a business meeting of the League of the Handicapped in the YWCA, 760 Courtney Street Friday at 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served. Transportation can be arranged by phoning Fred Blakeney at 4-1537 or 2-8315.

Firing practice on 90 m.m. anti-aircraft guns will be conducted today and Friday by Vancouver's 43 Medium Anti-Aircraft Battery and 24 MAA Battery, Trail-Nelson, in their annual militia summer camp at Albert Head firing point.

It is the largest militia artillery camp conducted in B.C. with about 185 men taking part. Each unit has a band and conducts retreat nightly at 8 at Work Point, where men are quartered.

POLICE DOG FROM KENTUCKY LOCATED BY TIMES NEWS ITEM

An item in the Times Wednesday reporting that a police dog from Kentucky was missing here brought fast action.

The dog, a handsome, 11-month-old male named Adanac, was returned to the mother of the owner at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Here on a visit with his owner, Miss Dawn Trainor, he disappeared Monday. The report in the Times effected his return to Mrs. W. J. Trainor, 1246 Fairfield.

But Adanac is still a long way from home. His owner is now on her way back, by car, to her nursing job in Kentucky.

United States police have been asked to watch for her and let her know Adanac has turned up.

Next problem: How to get the dog home.

PARISH GARDEN PARTY SATURDAY

Plans are completed for the annual garden party of St. Matthias Anglican Church to be held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Heisterman, 611 Foul Bay Rd. Assisting with arrangements are, from the left, Mrs. W. E. Harris, president of the Evening Guild; Mrs. Heisterman, who will be the hostess; Mrs. A. J. Collison, and Mrs. H. Ludwig, secretary and president of the Woman's Auxiliary. Proceeds from the garden party, in which all groups within the church take part, will benefit the church building fund. There will be stalls of home cooking, needlework, superfluities, plants and flowers, candy and children's wear. Tea will be served and games played.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Easy-to-Carry Hose Made of Light Vinyl

By PENNY SAVER

What a job it is lugging a heavy (and usually muddy) garden hose from the front garden to the back and vice versa. It's much easier to buy another length of hose and leave it connected up, and since you can buy 50 feet of vinyl hose for only $1.99, it's commercial, too.

The hose comes in red or green, and is guaranteed for five years. I've tried it, and it's wonderfully light. It has the usual metal fittings.

FIT ANY SIZE

Pretty summer belts to wear with a cotton dress or skirt are made of interlocking plastic daisies. They adjust to any size—you just take off or add on daisies.

In yellow, blue, black, or pink with white or all-white, they're 98 cents.

Comfy plastic foam sluffs are useful for the bathroom or the beach, and come in an assortment of pastel colors. They are just 98 cents a pair.

Angel food or sponge cakes are popular right now to serve with fresh berries or peaches. I found tube pans for sponge cakes in a square shape instead of the usual round. In heavy-quality aluminum, they would make a good kitchen shower gift at $1.79.

There are super round sponge cake pans, too. Small legs on the outside edge let you stand the cake upside down to cool without it touching anything, and the tube section lifts out so you can remove the cake easily. These are $2.45.

Noticed a new shipment of the popular silver-plated sugar tongs. They're made in England, and are $1 each. I'll be happy to tell you where I shopped today if you call me at 2-3131.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Hostess gift in lieu of wedding gift:

In a few weeks, I will be visiting a couple who were married two years ago, at which time the bride was a Catholic and the bridegroom wasn't. The husband is now taking instruction in the Catholic Church, where they will have a religious marriage ceremony. My visit will coincide with the Louise Davis marriage and I am wondering if a wedding gift is in order.

Louise Davis answers: No, but it would be nice to take your hostess a gift as most people do when they go visiting. The time for a wedding gift was when they were originally married, whether there were many people present or none but themselves and their witnesses. What they are doing now is to have the marriage sanctified by the Catholic Church. Their marriage in a few weeks surely won't be a wedding in the true sense, meaning bridal attendants and a reception. I doubt if they would be so foolish as to have the "works." If you didn't send the couple anything when they were first married, and if you feel that you would still like to do it, wait until you have returned from your visit.

Garden Party

Members of Nazarene Shrine No. 1, White Shrine of Jerusalem, have made plans for a garden party at the home of Mrs. Eva Wood, 85 Dock Street on Saturday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Gaines Cameron will open the affair. There will be stalls of home cooking and garden produce and afternoon tea will be served.

WHY GROW OLD?

Some Confused With Advice For Gaining Graceful Gait

A lovely walk is a beautiful thing to behold! I have written many times in this column about how to develop a smooth, flowing, graceful gait. However, letters which come to me make me realize that some advice which is given about how to walk is misunderstood by readers.

For instance, a recent letter shows confusion over the admonition to "place each foot directly in front of the other." Two of the usual defects in propelling ourselves along are: (1) The habit of waddling from side to side instead of reaching forward with each step. (2) Toeing out.

The advice to place each foot directly in front of the other should not be taken literally—it was designed to give you the feeling of doing so in order to counteract the two tendencies mentioned above. If you want to practice, draw a line and place the inside of each foot on the line.

Another mixer-upper: Some experts say, "keep the knees slightly bent while walking." They do not really mean for you to go about as though you are ready to take off for the hurdles, but rather suggest that you keep your knees relaxed.

Unless you have a feeling of relaxation in the knees you will over extend them and produce a jumpy effect as though you were on springs. When the knees are tense you will also find that your pelvis is in poor balance. The hips should be pulled under and the abdomen held in.

Directions for arm motion also bewilder many. Let your arms swing naturally as you walk, the right arm swinging forward as you step forward with the left foot and vice versa. However, if you swing them with a vigorous motion it is unattractive and makes you appear to be propelled along by your arms. Usually the arms should not swing much further forward than the middle side seam of your dress or suit.

Of course, when you are walking briskly outdoors for exercise the swing can be more emphasized.

Sketches Exhibited

The Victoria Sketch Club was entertained Saturday at the home of Mrs. Lillian Sweeney at a tea in honor of members who received first prize for the group exhibition. Paintings displayed were "Basque Landscape" by Miss Alice Carey; "The Mellow Light of Evening" by Miss Maude Lettice; "Peace River Country" by Mrs. N. M. Bardshaw, and "Winter Dance" by Miss S. Gibson, convenor for the Victoria group.

Eighteen members were present, including Misses Maude Bruce, Alice Carey, Maude Lettice, S. Gibson, Dorothy Lowe, Betty Newton, G. Snider, D. Cox-Walker, H. Walsh, and Mrs. N. M. Bradshaw, Mrs. B. Mallock, Mrs. F. Press, Mrs. P. M. Robinson, Mrs. Lillian Sweeney, Mrs. V. Trueman, Mrs. M. Jarvis, Mrs. H. Evans, and Mrs. B. W. Biggin.

Plane Wreckage Sighted, 1949 Crash

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wreckage sighted today on a mountain in northwest Washington State has been identified as that of an Aero Club of B.C. aircraft which crashed in 1949.

The identification, made by a member of an RCAF rescue crew flown to the area in a Piasecki helicopter, ended speculation that the wreckage might be that of a single-engine private plane with two men aboard missing since Monday on a flight from Langley to Penticton, B.C.

An air force spokesman said that search for the missing Taylorcraft plane is continuing. Aboard the aircraft were the 21-year-old pilot—J. E. Matser—and the owner—Steve Antifaez, 24—both of Grand Forks, B.C.

CNR Ships Tied Up
By Seamen's Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—A Sea-farers' International Union strike against Canadian National Steamships began today on its noon deadline, the SIU reported.

Picketers were dispatched as the SIU struck against the first of eight ships either now tied up or due to be in Montreal, Saint John, N.B., and Halifax in a dispute about wages.

A spokesman for the government-owned CNS said its two vessels affected immediately here were transferred to deep water anchorage off Longue Pointe this morning and the striking crews would be lighted off.

John D. Delays Session
For Arrival of Queen

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker strongly indicated that the opening of Canada's 23rd Parliament will be delayed until mid-October, enabling the Queen to be present.

During the election campaign, Diefenbaker promised the new Parliament would meet in September. Since then, he said, complications have arisen, and "I don't think there will be any great condemnation" if the opening is delayed until the Queen's arrival.

One complication inhibiting a September opening is the fact that the Canadian Parliament buildings will be occupied until Sept. 28 by an international postal congress.

In a question-and-answer session with reporters, the prime minister also:

Said there are good grounds for speculation that three Commonwealth prime ministers—Menzies of Australia, Suhrawardy of Pakistan and Nkrumah of Ghana—will be seen in Ottawa in the next few weeks or months. Menzies is definitely visiting Ottawa July 21-24 and the others are likely to come.

Said there has been no change in Canadian policy on the recognition of Communist China.

"There is no finality in that stand," he said. "Recognition is something more than a concept based on juridical principles. There is still a large body of Canadian opinion which feels that the action of recognition would be taken by people in various parts of the world as a victory for communism and as having a detrimental effect on some of those who are in opposition to communism."

Coast Lumbering Shutdown Set
Friday Morning

An 11th hour bid by Premier Bennett to stave off a strike of 32,000 coast woodworkers failed today.

Barring a last-minute change of heart, which seemed unlikely at noon, the strike will begin at 10 a.m. Friday.

Almost 12,000 men will be idled on Vancouver Island, including 1,500 in the Victoria area.

Representatives of the IWA and Forest Industrial Relations, bargaining agent for 157 coast operators, reported to the premier this morning following the breakdown of their negotiations Wednesday.

At the end of the 90-minute meeting the premier admitted that negotiations were deadlocked.

"I tried every means possible to get them together but..." the premier said.

At the same time the premier disclosed that the union has come down from its original demand of a 20 per cent wage increase to 12½ per cent.

The operators, who originally said they could not afford to grant any increase, have offered 5 per cent.

Neither side would budge

from these positions today, Premier Bennett said.

"I still hope that between now and midnight a solution will be found, although it does not look as bright as before," the premier said.

He said he had offered his services at any time and both sides promised that if they had any further suggestions, they would get in touch with him.

The premier said he made a number of suggestions at this morning's meeting in an attempt to break the deadlock, but none were acceptable.

Neither side would agree to arbitration, he said.

Only the wage issue remains to be settled, Mr. Bennett said. There was "no problem" as far as other demands by the union were concerned, he said.

IWA president Joe Morris said that "on Friday at 10 a.m. they (the operators) will reap the fruits of their consistent policy of denying to their employees a just share of the wealth earned by the industry."

The strike, which will close all logging, plywood, sawmill and shingle operations on the coast, is the most serious of a number of labor disputes facing the province.

Government Has Own Troubles

Some 11,600 provincial civil servants have threatened to walk off their jobs if the government does not answer their demand for full bargaining rights and a 13-per cent average wage increase.

The B.C. Government Employees Association has given the government until next Wednesday to reply. So far there has been no comment from government officials.

Nearly 5,500 coast salmon net fishermen have been on strike for almost two weeks.

Other threatened strikes involve 4,000 lower mainland carpenters and 3,000 operating engineers on construction projects all over the province.

Thousands of other workers would be affected by walkouts in these industries.

The IWA dispute doesn't involve the pulp and paper industry directly but there could be a forced close-down when present log supplies are used up.

The lumber strike will have a crippling effect on the provincial economy.

A $300,000,000-a-year business, it provides more than half B.C.'s annual income.

Churchill Rocket Soars
Record 160 Miles

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—A giant scientific rocket, the 24-foot Aerobee-Hi, soared to a record altitude of 160 miles today as the United States launched tests near here in conjunction with the International Geophysical Year.

Lt. Col. L. G. Smith of the U.S. Army Ordnance Corps, said the rocket was an astounding success. It went off behind schedule because of contrary winds.

... IWA

Cowichan-Duncan-Nanaimo, 3,600 in the Alberni, and 1,200 in Courtenay-Campbell River.

In all four areas picket teams have been formed, and all workers are ready to stop work sharp at 10 a.m.

Operators have been expecting the strike, and have acted accordingly. Where possible, production of logs has been kept closely in step with mill demands in order to keep the number of logs in storage at a minimum.

In addition, contractors requiring lumber have built up their stocks as much as possible in order to be able to keep working during the strike.

Pulp mills appear to be in a precarious position. Although workers at the mills at Harmac, Port Alberni, Duncan Bay, and Port Alice are in the Pulp and Sulphite Workers' Union, the flow of logs is in jeopardy.

At Duncan Bay, near Campbell River, the company has three booms on hand. Others are in storage at Gowlland Harbor, at Quadra Island, and the IWA says they will be picketed. Harmac, near Nanaimo, has poor storage ground, and the IWA says that only those logs under tow at 10 a.m. Friday will be allowed to continue to their destinations.

No new tows will be picked up, union officials said.

The strike could well be a long one. Some operators have expressed alarm, but a good many are quite prepared to remain shut down through the summer and not worry about reopening until the fall.

The union also is adamant. John Squire, Alberni MLA and recording secretary of the big Alberni IWA local, said today the majority of men are "disappointed" with the wage offer of 5 per cent, and want parity with other industries.

"They are prepared to fight for it," he said.

"When you decide to go on strike, you usually prepare yourself for a long one," said Ed Linder, financial secretary of the Duncan local.

At Courtenay crews are ready to strike not only for higher wages, but for settlement of certain grievances that have been rankling since signing of the 1934 contract.

MORAL SUPPORT

An appeal to all labor unions to give moral support to the IWA strike was made at a meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night by Ed Haw, financial secretary of the Victoria IWA local and a council vice-president.

Mr. Haw said the IWA for the time being was not intending to call for financial support. "But what we want is your moral support and co-operation," he said.

Here is the chronology of negotiations leading up to the strike:

Negotiations began last March. Besides the 20-per-cent wage increase, the union asked for a union shop agreement, increased vacations and more statutory holidays.

The employers maintained they could not grant any wage boost because the market for lumber and wood products was so poor. Talks broke down after two weeks—on March 29.

The two parties tried again in mid-April under the chairmanship of former B.C. attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

Mr. Wismer and the employer nominee on the board, in a majority report, recommended that negotiations be put over until Oct. 1. The report did not discuss the wage issue.

OPPOSED

The IWA objected strongly to the majority report, saying that if accepted it would deprive them the right to strike if negotiations broke down again in the fall.

In the first week of June the union conducted its own vote among the membership and reported 95 per cent supported strike action.

Then a government-supervised strike vote was ordered to take place last Wednesday. On Tuesday afternoon, Premier Bennett wired both sides to meet with him in his office later in the week in an effort to break the deadlock.

In the official vote, the IWA membership voted 90 per cent to back strike action.

At a meeting Friday, Premier Bennett succeeded in getting the disputants to re-open negotiations.

These new talks continued for five full days before collapsing late Wednesday afternoon.

There have been two previous strikes in the B.C. lumber industry since the end of the Second World War—one in 1946 and another in 1952.

The worst was five years ago when the industry was shut down for 45 days at an estimated overall cost to the province of $45,000,000.

Both these strikes were ended after Chief Justice Gordon Sloan was appointed by the government as a special mediator.

Floods Ravage Big U.S. Area

CHICAGO (BUP)—Floods surged across four states today and a new squall line pounded the northern plains, adding more moisture to already soaked farmlands.

An outbreak of violent weather also hit the northeast Wednesday night and early today, dumping up to .75 of an inch of rain at Syracuse, N.Y., Burlington, Vt., and Mount Washington, N.H.

Severe thunderstorms accompanied by wind gusts of 50 miles per hour swept the Dakotas Wednesday night and today, knocking down power lines at Sioux Falls, S.D., Jamestown, N.D., reported more than one inch of rain in a thunderstorm.

High winds also whipped western Nebraska, and tornado funnels were sighted at Southern and Brady near North Platte, Neb.

New floods swirled Wednesday and today across thousands of acres of cropland in Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Indiana.

Agricultural officials in Indiana and Illinois reported extensive crop damage due to floods and prolonged wet weather.

Up to 50,000 acres of farmland were inundated when the Wabash River smashed a levee near Griffin, Ind. State officials considered asking Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson to declare flood-plagued Indiana a disaster area.

Floods in southern Illinois have washed out thousands of acres of corn, eliminating the state's chances to repeat as the nation's top corn producer.

... Diefenbaker

him, since his arrival in London, of his proposals for Commonwealth trade expansion. British politicians he had spoken to at a parliamentary reception also seemed sympathetic.

The prime minister plans to fly back to Ottawa Friday night and will hold a cabinet meeting Saturday. He disclosed he had been invited to visit the republic of Ireland as the guest of Prime Minister de Valera, but declined because of the pressure of time.

Asked to comment on the shake-up in Russia, whereby five party leaders have been dismissed from the Praesidium, the Canadian leader said: "It is a most amazing situation. One wonders whether or not the changes mean that the army will assume more importance in the general set-up than ever before."

On the question of a proposed full-scale Commonwealth trade conference, he reiterated that there is an "open invitation" for Commonwealth finance ministers to visit Ottawa late in September to consider the feasibility of such a conference, perhaps early next year.

CAUTIOUS ABOUT SESSIONS

Diefenbaker was cautious in replies to questions about proceedings at the current Commonwealth conference, which ends Friday noon.

He was particularly wary in discussing The Guardian story about the alleged "broadside" he had delivered at Wednesday's meeting. He had seen "lots of speculation" about what goes on at Commonwealth conferences, and not all of it was true.

The Guardian story says: "For the first time since the Commonwealth prime ministers gathered... the temperature rose sharply yesterday... the cause was an outspoken speech by Mr. Diefenbaker, which proved to be one of the bluntest statements made so far. It is not certain that the Canadian leader intended to administer such a shock to his colleagues, but what he had to say about outside investment clearly came as a very great surprise to some of his opposite numbers."

The paper quotes Diefenbaker as saying that in some lines of business in Canada as many as 70 per cent of the firms are entirely under American control.

Diefenbaker Denies Rumor On Wheat

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today there is no foundation, "indirectly or otherwise," for suggestions that Canada may be thinking of withdrawing from the International Wheat Agreement.

He was replying to a question from a reporter who said there were rumors in Winnipeg that Canada might be contemplating withdrawal.

In reply to other queries about wheat, Diefenbaker said his hopes of disposing of some of the Canadian surplus are "very much higher" than when he arrived in London June 24.

"I believe a very considerable avenue has been opened which will lead to advantages to Canada," he said without elaboration.

Earlier, he said wheat is Canada's "No. 1 problem" and that naturally he is doing what he can in London to seek "ways of moving" the surplus.

Remotely Controlled Substation In Saanich Opened by Reeve Ash

Proof of the past growth of Saanich, and expectations of future growth, was given Wednesday when the B.C. Electric George Tripp substation on Lochside Drive was declared officially in business.

It is estimated 65,000,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity were sold here last year," said Thomas Ingledow, vice-president and executive engineer, at an opening ceremony.

This station can deliver 250,000,000 kilowatt-hours, therefore can handle loads four times as large as those of today.

The automatic station, built at a cost of $914,000, and with associated facilities that cost $105,000 was activated by Reeve Arthur Ash in a symbolic ceremony.

It was put on load from Bay Street substation. All operation will be from Bay Street, and there will be no staff at the station.

Reeve Ash also unveiled a plaque in honor of the station's namesake, a former general superintendent of operations for the company on Vancouver Island, who died in 1946.

The substation is designed to serve the Saanich area, drawing power from both Jordan River hydro station, and the 132,000-volt submarine cable from the mainland.

E. W. Arnott, company vice-president on Vancouver Island, conducted the ceremony, witnessed by about 30 company officials and Saanich council members and senior department heads.

With him on the platform were H. L. Purdy, executive vice-president, and R. H. B. Ker, Vancouver Island director of the company.

Following the ceremony the visitors were taken on a tour of the installation, and were shown the news capabilties which will absorb the fluctuations caused by sudden demands, and provide an even flow of electrical power to the 13,000 commercial and private consumers in the municipality.

After the tour the party was entertained at a reception and luncheon at Royal Colwood Golf Club.

TWO for the SHOW

A (Don't Miss) B (For Rainy Days)
C (To put in time)

(OSCAR CLASS) "THE TEN COMMANDMENTS" — Sometimes it's gaudy, sometimes it's sheer make-believe and once it smacks of questionable taste. But in his 75th year Cecil B. DeMille, possibly the world's best-known director, has created a story from the Holy Scriptures that must be considered a motion picture epic.

For three hours and 39 minutes (plus a 10-minute intermission Wednesday morning) some 500 special guests sat through a preview of his "The Ten Commandments" utterly enthralled, watching a vast, moving re-enactment of Exodus. If it was more according to DeMille than the Gospel it surely was an experience that few of those present would have wanted to miss.

THE PICTURE opens at the Capitol a week Friday. Tickets go on sale this Saturday. Compiled from many sources and containing material from the books, "Prince of Egypt" by Dorothy Clarke Wilson, "Pillar of Fire" by Rev. J. H. Ingraham, and "The Eagle's Wings" by Rev. A. E. Souton, and, of course, the Holy Scriptures, "The Ten Commandments" is the story of Moses and how he led the children of Israel out of Egypt's house of bondage.

Usually, in epics such as this, the movie-maker dwarfs the characters and plot by colossal sets and a swarming host of extras. Not so, here. In spite of the breath-taking vastness of the whole! the sweating Hebrew slaves, the grandeur of the pyramids, the massive Egyptian court sets, the technical miracles that make the Red Sea open wide, the great prophet's staff to turn into a serpent, the Nile's waters to run red, the story emerges warm and real and, above all, the actors move with dignity, composure and with reason that underscores the realization of the seriousness of the subject.

THE ACTING by Charlton Heston, as Moses, is particularly impressive. Yul Brynner, as the arrogant prince who succeeds to the throne of Egypt upon the death of his father (movingly portrayed by Sir Cedric Hardwicke) is excellent. So are the balance of the principals of the staggeringly large cast, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne De Carlo, Debra Paget, John Derek, Nina Foch, Judith Anderson and Vincent Price.

In one or two of the scenes DeMille obviously (or deliberately) forgot and went Hollywood, the dancing girls and the shepherd's daughters cavorting about as though they were in a musical comedy. But in this column's opinion his only show of questionable taste was when he allowed a human to become the voice of God. Surely it would have been better here, when God appeared to Moses as a burning bush, for DeMille or a narrator, to read directly from the Bible?

AND HOW CLOSELY did DeMille and his scripters hew to the Biblical line? Often at night we read the Bible for its glorious English and its halcyon story, but do not profess to be a scholar on the subject. Therefore, to keep the record straight, we take the liberty of quoting a few excerpts from one religious publication for the benefit of those who are.

"The Bible shows Pharaoh had the Hebrew babies killed to curb increases in Israelite population, but DeMille's movie says it was to cut off the deliverer Moses while he was a babe.—Ex. 1:9, 10.

"The Bible indicates Moses knew all the time he was a Hebrew, and because he knew he was he killed an Egyptian that was striking one of his Hebrew brothers. He fled from Egypt. But the movie has him exiled because when he is grown it is learned he is a Hebrew and loves the same girl as Pharaoh's son.—Ex. 2:11, 12, 15.

"The Bible, at Acts 7:23-30, shows that Moses fled Egypt when he was 40 years old and was 80 when he returned from Midian. But the movie shows no such passage of time, keeping all the characters involved in love episodes wonderfully youthful, although Moses was allowed to age miraculously all at once, at the burning bush.

"THE BIBLE SHOWS that Moses' enemies in Egypt were dead when he returned, but the movie has his worst enemy sitting on the throne as Pharaoh. "Did Dathan instigate the golden-calf worship at Sinai, and did the earth swallow him and others for that? DeMille says yes, but the Bible says no. Did those calf-worshippers die that way at all? No, but by sword and plague. Dathan was not among them, for he and other rebels were swallowed up by the earth at a much later time and for an entirely different sin.—Ex. 32:27, 28, 35; Num. 16:1-3, 12, 25-32."

If these things be so then DeMille and his writers have much on their conscience. On the other hand it is known that approximately 30 years of Moses' life were left unrecorded in the Bible, therefore much of that which was written for the film necessarily came from objective deduction and, surely, no one can be blamed for that.

The main thing is, that DeMille and Paramount, by spending millions of dollars have brought a thrilling moment of Biblical history to millions of persons in a manner to make many think about a subject of which they think about all too little. For this alone he should be remembered long.
